COMMUNIST 'JUSTICE' IN CZECHOSLOVAKIA

Oatis' 10-Year Sentence Capped Nightmare of Arrest, Trial

When William N. Oatis returned to this country last May after more than two years in jail in Czechoslovakia, it was announced that he would write his own story of his experiences as a foreign correspondent of The Associated Press and as a prisoner of the Communists. Now, after rest, medical treatment and time for research, he has written that story. Below is the first article to appear under Oatis' own byline since April 18, 1951, five days before he was arrested in Prague.

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
(Copyright 1953 by The Associated Press)

Back home in Marion, Ind., I used to like the Fourth of July.

But in Prague, in 1951, I hated it.

That was the day we got the bad news.

There were four of us, all employes of The Associated Press in Czechoslovakia. I was the only American. The other three were Czechs—translators and interpreters. I was a foreign correspondent, and the chief of bureau.

On that sunny Wednesday morning, we were led into a bright, roomy, high-ceilinged hall of the courthouse at Pankrac Prison in Prague. We were seated on a long wooden bench.

It was like a church pew. And we would have made a proper quartet of churchgoers. We were dressed respectably in business suits, our faces were clean and we were quiet—very quiet.

BUT THERE THE resemblance ended. Because we did not sit alone. We sat, each of us, between two tall, strapping keepers in the red-trimmed olive-drab uniform of the Czechoslovak police. And they packed pistols.

We were their prisoners. We stood accused of espionage against what the Communists call the People's Democratic Republic of Czechoslovakia, on behalf of what they call the American imperialists. And we had come to the third and last day of our trial before the Senate of the State Court in Prague.

Behind us sat two sparse rows of reporters, Czechoslovak and foreign, for Communist newspapers and Communist news agencies. And behind them, filling ground floor and gallery, were citizens of Czechoslovakia.

I had not got a good look at that audience, because for a defendant the courtroom rule is eyes front, toward the judges.

But only seven months before, when a group of Roman Catholic clergymen was in the dock and I was in the press section, I had studied another audience that must have been much like it.

And so I thought I knew what I should have seen if I could have turned around and stared:

Two banks of color, like flowerbeds, above and below—the clothing and faces of a crowd. Bright work shirts and house frocks. Sober woolens—office garb. Pale faces, red faces. Poker faces, dull faces.

THESE WERE PEOPLE the authorities had favored with passes to the courtroom. A few were friends or relatives of us defendants. Two were friends of mine—though I did not know then that they were there, and it was almost two years before I found out. They were observers for the U. S. Embassy in Prague—Vice Consul Richard G. Johnson and Private Secretary Mary Horak.

But most of those in the audience were holidayers from factories, cooperative farms or government offices. They were just there for the show. And the show was drawing to its close. They were waiting, and we were waiting. Soon we were to hear the judgment.

IN ANCIENT Rome, people watched lions maul the Christians. In old London, they watched the hangman spring the trap on thieves. In modern Prague, they watched propaganda trials.

A man could cite other examples, too, from other times and other places. But there is no need for that, because in each case the spectacle is, in essence, the same.

It is the spectacle of people being ruined—something that might bill itself, with little exaggeration, as "the greatest show on earth."

The show was drawing to its close. On the day of my arrest, 72 days before, the secret police had told me:

"If anyone opposes us, we ruin them."

They had done a great deal in that direction already, on all of us. Now the court was about to finish the job.

Member of Early Family

Heart Illness Fatal To David W. Evans

David Walter Evans, 70, son of early residents of Marion, died at 1:30 p.m. Sunday in the family home at 346 W. Center St. Ill since last June when he suffered a heart attack, his death resulted from complications.

A lifelong resident of Marion, Mr. Evans was closely identified with the city's industrial and business life. He received his early education in the Marion public schools and later studied business administration at Eastman College, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Active in Business

Prior to his retirement several years ago he was for 10 years a director of the Marion County Bank and also served as vice president and a director of The Osgood Co., and vice president and a director of The Commercial Steel Castings Co. For many years he managed and directed all of the operations of the John Evans Lime & Stone Co. and held the same offices in the John Evans Land & Realty Co.

A member of the First Presbyterian Church, he was at one time affiliated with the Masonic Lodge. He was a member of the Marion Club, the Marion Country Club and the Executive Club and in earlier years was a member of the Tally Wag Club, a young men's social club of the city.

Mr. Evans was born Jan. 15, 1883, to John Evans, a native of Cardiff, Wales, and Mary Jane Owens Evans, whose birthplace was Marion County. His father pioneered in the development of

Married in 1919

On Nov. 18, 1919, he was married in New York, to Loraine Easter Haskin, of Milwaukee. Surviving with his wife are his daughter, Mrs. David Pollak, and grandsons, David Jr., Steven Evans and Craig Haskin. Four brothers and one sister are deceased.

Rally in Chicago

Democrats Hide Friction Under Show of Harmony

CHICAGO (AP)—Resurgent Democrats boomed a multiple-voiced challenge to the Republicans today as the minority party opened a national rally here with its inner frictions hidden under an outward coat of harmony.

Former Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, the 1952 presidential nominee, and former President Truman led a list of Democratic notables who shouted defiance to the Eisenhower administration and promised a fighting congressional campaign next year on foreign policy, farm and big business issues.

'Happy To Lead It'

Stevenson told a rally of Democratic women last night that "it begins to look as if we might need a crusade and I would be happy to lead it."

In this allusion to President Eisenhower's "crusade" of last year, the former Illinois Governor came closer than ever before to indicating his availability for the party's 1956 nomination.

Perhaps with this possibility in mind, Truman has introduced Stevenson as the "No. 1 Democrat in the United States."

Quickly Stevenson replied he didn't think there would ever be another "Mr. Democrat" so long as Truman was alive.

But at this meeting, Stevenson is the unmistakable star despite the presence here of Democrats from almost every faction in the party except Southern bolkers like Govs. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina and Allan Shivers of Texas.

'Save the Country' Call

Truman, who lunched and dined with Stevenson yesterday sounded a call to party members to "go home and get in position so the Democrats will do what is necessary to save the country."

The former President remarked at another point that "there never is anything but harmony in the Democratic party."

Truman has urged party members to take off the gloves in criticizing President Eisenhower and his administration.

National Chairman Stephen Mitchell, not quite willing to go so far, voiced sharp criticism at a news conference of Democrats who

Mercury Plunges To Near Freezing; Rain Brings Break

The temperature dropped to two degrees above freezing in Marion last night as a large area of the country was shivering in freezing temperatures.

Light showers which began this morning were to bring slightly warmer weather to the midwest, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

From the high of 60 recorded yesterday in Marion, the mercury dropped to a low of 34 last night and had risen only to 48 by noon today. A year ago, the high was 84 and the low 67.

Showers were predicted to continue throughout today and Tuesday is to be partly cloudy with moderate temperatures. The low tonight is to be from 50 to 56.

As large areas were chilled yesterday, parts of upper Michigan were seriously affected. It was 29 at Pellston and 30 at Grand Marais early today. By way of contrast, Russell, Kan., reported 103-degree temperature yesterday.

Heavy rains were reported to have fallen in New England, New York State and Pennsylvania, showers in Minnesota, Wisconsin, northern Illinois and thunderstorms in northern California and the southern Colorado mountains.

India Troops Take Charge Of Prisoners

First of 320 Allied Soldiers Who Refused Repatriation Arrive

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Some of the 320 Allied prisoners who refused to return to their homelands from Red captivity have arrived at nearby Kaesong, Communist Correspondent Wilfred Burchett said today.

They are expected to be handed over to Indian custody in the Korean neutral zone Sunday.

Burchett, the Paris l'Humanite newsman who often speaks unofficially for the Red command, did not say how many men are at Kaesong nor did he give their nationality.

Include Americans

About 20 of the 320 are non-KKoreans and probably most of the 20 are Americans.

Meanwhile, Indian troops guarding anti-Red Chinese and North Koreans squelched angry but small outbursts among the 1,800 Chinese being handed over Monday.

The POWs hurled rocks and insults at Communist observers watching outside, but the crack Indian soldiers moved into the stockades and quieted the shouting, fist-swinging captives.

Monday's shipment brought the total of POWs already in the demilitarized zone to almost 5,000 Chinese and 1,000 North Koreans.

In all, about 14,700 Chinese and 8,000 North Koreans will be held under Indian guardianship to hear explanations why they should return home and wait while the political conference tries to work out their fate.

January, 1954, Deadline

If the problem isn't settled by about Jan. 25, 1954, those remaining will be freed as civilians.

The first 250 Chinese being brought to the demilitarized zone Monday morning balked at being separated from 250 others who accompanied them.

However, the Indian cam commander, Maj. Gen. S. P. P. Thorat, gave them 15 minutes to move in. The prisoners entered the compound quickly.

Thorat explained he felt he did not have enough men to control any outburst of trouble in a group of 500. Only about half the 5,000 Indian soldiers who will guard the POWs are in the neutral zone. The rest were expected to arrive by Sept. 25.

Thorat warned Red and Allied observers and representatives of the overseeing five-nation repatriation commission to move away from the barbed wire enclosure.

"Gentlemen, the temper of these men is not too good," he warned. "I advise you to stand back. If a stone comes your way I advise you to catch it but I don't think that will happen."

Gets Commission Okay

Others ripped open their shirts to show the Red observer teams tatoos on their chests of Nationalist Chinese flags, and slogans.

Throughout the transfer, Gen. Thorat explained to the representatives of the repatriation commission what action he was taking and received approval from the Czech, Polish, Swiss and Swedish members.

U.N. Taut as Battle Looms Over Korean Peace Talks

Red Chinese Round-Table Demands Hit

U.S. Quickly Objects To More 'Neutrals' At Conference Table

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Tension built up again in the United Nations today as explosive new debate became a certainty in the wake of Communist China's demands for a "round-table" Korean peace conference.

A spokesman for the United States at once emphatically rejected the Peiping proposals, made in a long telegram yesterday from Chinese Premier-Foreign Minister Chou En-lai to U.N. Secretary Gen. Dag Hammarskjold.

Oratorical Battle Expected

With the U.N. General Assembly opening tomorrow, delegates prepared for another oratorical battle over Chou's demands that Russia, India, Burma, Pakistan and Indonesia be invited to the peace conference as "neutrals," and that Red China and North Korea be invited to send representatives to the U.N. Assembly "to discuss the question of enlarging the membership of the political conference."

U. S. Asst. Secretary of State Robert Murphy voiced the American rejection, telling the American Association for the United Nations in a speech in New York that the American plan for a two-sided conference must be carried out. The Assembly approved this plan 43-5 last month.

May Withdraw Opposition

Murphy said the U. S. government "sees no reason whatever" for new Assembly debate on the conference makeup, or for inviting the Red Chinese to the Assembly. But delegates generally felt the question would break into the open soon after the body elects its officers and organizes for what is supposed to be a three-month session.

Qualified quarters said the United States, rather than risk having no peace conference at all, would withdraw its opposition to renewed debate.

U. S. delegates gathered in New York for their first briefing on the new developments and on other

A third-year student at the University of Pennsylvania, the new Miss America is five feet, eight inches tall, weighs 132 pounds. Her curves measure 37-24-36.

Meany Blames Ike for Durkin Resigning Post

AFL Head Believes President Personally Repudiated Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP)—AFL President George Meany says he is convinced Martin P. Durkin quit as secretary of labor because President Eisenhower personally repudiated an agreement with him.

Durkin, when his resignation was announced last Thursday said the Eisenhower administration had broken an agreement with him on 19 proposed changes in the Taft-Hartley Law. He did not accuse Eisenhower personally, but said, "We believed he had agreed to them."

Meany told NBC-TV interviewers yesterday he was certain Durkin would not have quit in any dispute "with a White House clerk."

Meany declined to say whom he would recommend as Durkin's successor, if he were asked. But he said the secretary of labor should be "sympathetic to labor," just as the secretaries of agriculture and commerce are sympathetic to farmers and business, respectively.

Phil Pearl, AFL national information director, was asked during an NBC Radio interview yesterday

SILENT ON REPORTS

CINCINNATI (AP)—Robert A. Taft Jr., attorney, declined to comment today on reports that he will become a candidate for the U. S. Senate in the 1954 election.

The 36-year-old son of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft was asked about the report after the New York Daily News published a story to that effect.

West Studying Italian Request For Plebiscite

Free Election Sought In Trieste; Tito Says 'Big Three' Meddling

ROME (AP) — The Western Big Three today studied an Italian plea for a free plebiscite in explosive Trieste and a blunt Yugoslav warning "not to pour oil on the fire."

Neither in Belgrade nor Rome was there much confidence that the latest settlement proposals by the raw-tempered neighbors had brought the seven-year-old quarrel over the strategic frontier territory any nearer a solution. But neither was there serious fear that the heightened dispute would lead to violence.

In a speech here yesterday, Italian Premier Giuseppe Pella called for a plebiscite in the entire Free Trieste territory to determine whether it eventually should be under Italian or Yugoslav control.

At the same time he flatly rejected Yugoslav President Tito's proposal a week ago to internalize the port city of Trieste and give the surrounding rural territory to Yugoslavia.

At present, the northern part of the territory, including the port, is occupied by British and American troops. Italy assists in its joint administration. The southern district—zone B—is occupied by Yugoslav troops.

Tito, speaking yesterday to a crowd of 150,000 in the Adriatic city of Split, warned the Italians they would "break their heads" against a stone wall of Yugoslav resistance if they attempted to seize Trieste by force.

"All that I am asking from the

The 335 old-time cars which will participate in the Glidden Tour begin their exhibition today in Cleveland with a parade down Euclid Ave.

Tuesday morning the cars leave the city and start the 331-mile trip from Cleveland to Columbus to Toledo and Detroit. They are scheduled to pass through Marion about noon Wednesday.

The cars in the parade range from a 55-year-old Autocar, which its owner values at $15,000 to several cars made in the 1930's. All together, some 92 different makes of automobiles are now gathered in Cleveland to begin the tour

Corners Beauty Market

Pennsylvania Cops Both 'Miss' and 'Mrs.' America

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) — Pennsylvania had a corner on the beauty market today, with lovelies from that state the winners of the 1954 Miss and Mrs. America crowns.

As Evelyn Margaret Ay launched a whirlwind tour today, her victory Saturday night over 51 other beauties in the Miss America pageant seemed like a dream.

Mrs. America

It was the same for Mrs. Erna Snyder, chosen from among 32 other wedded beauties to wear the Mrs. America crown at Asbury Park last night.

Miss Ay, who prefers to be called "Evvy," has a week of television appearances and wardrobe fitting in New York to go through before taking to the road.

Her heart belongs to a naval officer trainee, and she sported a diamond engagement ring on the third finger of her left hand at her first press conference yesterday.

Doubted She Would Win

The 20-year-old pageant winner, who hails from the small town of Ephrata, Pa., is a university of Pennsylvania coed. She got the ring a week ago from Carl Sempier of Verona, N. J., 22, an ex-football player now in a navy officer training school at Newport, R. I.

Evvy's surprised she was the victor, because she thinks she's too fat in places. She weighs 132 and stands 5 feet 8 inches high. her bust-waist-hips measurements are 37, 24, and 36 inches.

Besides $40,000 in personal appearance fees, Miss America gets a $5,000 scholarship and other awards worth another $5,000.

There'll be an ironic touch to Mrs. Americas appearance today at a fair in Reading in her home state of Pennsylvania. Mrs. Snyder had entered two beauty contests there in the past, but the best she did was to finish as a runner-up.

"I didn't expect to win," she said after being given the crown last night, "I still can't believe it."

The 115-pound, 5 feet 4¾ inches-tall mother of two boys also has a year of personal appearances

Shows No Signs of Fearing Slump

U.S. Business Goes After 'New Money'

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Business is out this month actively looking for "new money." The would-be borrowers show nary a sign of fearing a slump and being ready to draw back into their shells.

Corporate debt has about doubled in the last seven years as business seeks new money to finance the building of plants and buying of equipment. It also borrows because inflation and growth have boosted its need of working capital.

After the summer lull, September is seeking an active revival of offerings of new corporate securities. Prime example is American Telephone Telegraph's plan to seek a record 625 million dollars this fall.

New capital issues (excluding refunding) by corporations this year apparently are going to just about equal last year's record total of nearly nine billion dollars, the Northern Trust Co. of Chicago predicts.

In a survey out today, the Department of Commerce and the Securities and Exchange Commission foresee a slight letdown by year's end in the present record pace of business spending for plant and equipment.

"Capital outlays may fall from current peak levels," the Chicago bank agrees, "but if they do it will probably be because earnings are down — a requirement and source of financing that usually rise and fall together."

Business has been financing its expansion more by using its retained earnings and its increasing depreciation reserves than through issuing new stocks and bonds, however.

A Federal Reserve Board survey of 300 large corporations shows that in the last five years bond and stock financing has raised only one fifth of the total money spent. Profits put back into the business and depreciation charges furnished three-fifths. Out and out borrowing supplied the rest.

Since the end of World War II, the total of corporate debt has risen from about 100 billion dollars to almost 200 billion dollars.

This huge total of debt, some fear, could be embarrassing in a recession. But Marcus Nadler, consulting economist to the Hanover Bank, New York, sees little need for concern yet.

"The long term debt is well spaced and is being amortized," he says. "The short-term debt reflects primarily the higher cost of doing business and of large inventories at current prices."

Dr. Nadler calls the financial position of most corporations sound.

Troopship Brings Both Heartbreak And Happiness

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Planes, trains, busses and autos sped happiness across the nation today. Another shipload of repatriated prisoners of war had docked and 377 more soldiers were home.

For most it was a quick trip through the processing lines and then home to the folks. For some it was a slight delay at Letterman General Hospital while their medical histories were checked.

None would be long from the arms of his loved ones.

The Marine Phoenix, sixth of the freedom vessels, is a large impersonal thing But its cargo yesterday was human happiness and heartbreak.

Mrs. Ola Riddle of Richmond, Calif., met the ship. Not in hopes of seeing her husband; he had never been repatriated. But to learn something about him from an Army buddy coming home.

The truth came quickly; brutal in its impact, but merciful in the gentle words of a friend.

"He wandered out of the hut in the middle of winter. He was starving to death We found him in the snow the next day and we buried him."

Thus did Mrs. Riddle learn that Sgt. Hoyle T. Riddle, 38, was dead.

Cpl. Ralph W. Meier of White Lake, S D., knew "something was up" when he read letters from his wife and mother shortly before leaving the ship.

But it was a reporter who broke the news: Meier's wife had remaried, thinking him dead.

His wife Ava, only 15 when he married, thinking him dead.

ing the Army, had married Herald Kapsch of Mitchell, S D., last March. That marriage was annulled when she learned Meier was alive and a captive of the Reds

They said the boys took advantage of the fact that mechanics had left keys in the ignition locks.

Actress Gets Death Threat

Rita Hayworth Puts Guard on Daughter

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rita Hayworth's two young daughters are under armed guard at her home today after the film star's attorney said Miss Hayworth received the second of two letters threatening death unless she returns to Prince Aly Khan.

Included in the death threat was Yasmin, Ritas 2½ year old daughter by Aly.

Ritas attorney, Bartley Crum, who confirmed receipt of the two letters, said the armed guard was placed over Yasmin and her half-sister, Rebecca Welles, 8, daughter of Orson Welles, at Miss Hayworth's home here

"I don't know if this is serious or not, but it would be very foolish to take a chance," Crum said.

Miss Hayworth is in Las Vegas, Nev., visiting crooner Dick Haymes whom she plans to marry later this month. The FBI there opened an investigation into the threats yesterday and it will be continued today.

Both letters reportedly bore postmarks from New Rochelle, N. Y. The first was received several days ago, and a spokesman at Las Vegas said it was relayed from a Hollywood columnist The second arrived Saturday at Miss Hayworth's hotel in Las Vegas.

The actress was divorced from Prince Aly in Reno last Jan. 26 and last Friday turned down a divorce settlement which Crum said involved approximately one million dollars for the support of Yasmin.

Big Bill Comes After Peace

Wars Now Fought on Installment Plan

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The nature of war is changing.

In the old days wars often paid for themselves, particularly as far as the victors were concerned They yielded a handsome profit in terms of looting, land and ransom, as well as in glory.

Today wars are fought on the installment plan Win or lose, a nation gets its biggest bill after peace comes—not while the guns are flaming It costs more to clean up the battlefields than it did to redden them

The expense goes on for generations. Starting certainly by the time of the Civil War, America has found it more costly to pay off its after obligations of a war than it did to foot the bills for the actual fighting.

In the final bookkeeping of any war one of the expense items is the memorials erected to commemorate it. As people think less of war in terms of glory, their attitude toward best how to honor their heroes is changing.

The old idea was to collect as big a sum of money as possible and put up as big a monument as possible, surmounted by a huge symbolic figure or a metal general rigid on a rampant metal horse.

After both the Civil War and the First World War,, communities tried to outdo each other in this respect. It was all done in the name of grateful patriotism. A few of these memorials were lovely But many were sculptural atrocities at the time, and now—although they are the joyful perches of pigeons — many residents regard them wryly as civic eyesores.

But at best they were only something to look at. They had no human use. And are such passive hunks of metal and marble really the best way to remember the sacrifices of the fallen?

Many communities today don't think so. The trend after the Second World War was toward memorials that spelled an improvement and betterment of a way of life the local boys had died to preserve—a new athletic field, high school, art gallery, library, bridge, or a civil hall plaque bearing the names of the honored dead. What better tribute can a town pay to the memory of its heroes than to build something to make it a better town?

And what better monument could the American 4th Army have than the one it erected to commemorate its deadly landing 10 years ago on the beaches below Salerno—a nursery and welfare center for Italian children? What finer testimony of what its victory there stands for?

The men who fought there often felt they were in "the forgotten war." But the Italian people now have fresh cause to remember them gratefully for a long time

What kind of memorials will be built to keep alive the memory of the sacrifices of those who died in the Korean War? It is doubtful whether there will be many erected in this country. But the funds America will pour into Korea for the rebuilding of that shattered land are the truest kind of remembrance—out of hate something better.

But the best war memorial is a lasting peace. And if a real peace could emerge from Korea, the world will enjoy the noblest memorial of its history.

Take Notice

If the sharpies in the Kremlin missed this one, they should turn in their sickles and start asking about bus rates to Siberia, one way.

When the U. S. Air Force announced it would drop plans to buy 965 planes at a "saving" of 750 million dollars, it went to considerable pains to explain that the money would be spent on more modern equipment.

The heaviest curse on national security in machine-age warfare is the time lag between design and creation.

Each military airplane that comes off a drawing board has to wait for upward of five years before it flies off a runway. The Department of Defense is being accused of "saving" money at the expense of national security because it wants to go slow on a policy of piling up obsolescent airplanes. It wants new designs, not old ones.

It has been given reason to believe that the air force which the United States would compete with in the event of war — the Soviet Union's air force — is heavily committed to a policy of piling up obsolete planes.

It has not forgotten that the air battle for Europe in World War II was decided in favor of the Allies because Nazi Germany made the mistake of piling up obsolete planes for its blitz warfare that began in 1940.

By 1944 and 1945, when the showdown came, German planes were no match for the steadily improving planes put into the air by the United States and Great Britain.

'Like the Man Said'

That homegrown "stubborn old man," Rep. Reed of New York, who was trying to cut income tax rates at the same time President Rhee of South Korea was trying to keep the Reds from cutting his throat, should relish the news about Canada's cigaret tax.

Rep. Reed believed that if the income-tax rates were reduced the federal government would get more revenue. He stuck to his guns even though his position was grossly misrepresented.

He cited figures from the time of Andrew Mellon in the twenties to show that lower income-tax rates sometimes will produce more revenue because taxes can get so high they run into the law of diminishing returns.

It's too late to argue about his theory now, but in Canada the government cut its cigaret tax by 4 cents on each package. Manufacturers thereupon cut the price by 2 cents. Cigaret sales zoomed. The sale of non-taxed cigarets smuggled in from the United States sagged.

Canada expects to get more revenue from a lower cigaret tax this year than it was able to get from a higher tax last year. This is the idea Rep. Reed was trying to get across when he was accused of wanting to gyp the government out of needed revenue by proposing an across-the-board reduction in personal income taxes. He wanted to do just the opposite.

No Time for Fainting

It is not hard to sympathize with the new wielders of power in Iran as they grapple with the problem of what to do with Dr. Mossadegh. Wherever he goes, they can be sure he won't go peaceably.

The direct solution of their problem would be to rush him through a drumhead court and execute him without further delay. But that would convert him into a martyr.

The indirect solution would be to give him a fair trial on a charge of inciting a rebellion. Since he did incite a rebellion, he could be found guilty, then either executed or imprisoned.

But that would give him a chance to faint in the courtroom and stir up sympathy. Whatever other claims he may make to fame, the doctor is the 20th century champion of the faint from a standing start.

If the Iranians newly in power think about it long enough, they may hit upon the idea of sending Dr. Mossadegh to the United States as one end of the grant-in-aid deal which shortly is going to enrich them by a couple hundred million dollars. He would be absolutely harmless here, a sought-after member of the international set in New York City and Iran would never hear of him again.

On Juvenile Delinquency

Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, genial Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, journeyed to Philadelphia the other day to speak on one of her favorite themes—juvenile delinquency. She is against it, and on the basis of the "Education" and "Welfare" phases of her new composite title she becomes an ardent champion of the idea that somebody, somehow, ought to do something agout youthful offenses, perhaps through education toward the goal of general welfare.

Mrs. Hobby's remedy, to meet the problem, is distressingly unspecific in one sense, yet a direct challenge to concerned citizens.

"It is the job of the citizens themselves," she assured the National Urban League in the City of Brotherly Love, "operating in the great voluntary groups, in the churches, schools, and other community institutions of our society. It (the problem) cannot be solved through the youth movements of an authoritarian, regimented society."

Court Wrangling May Begin

The death of Fred M. Vinson, Chief Justice of the United States, is expected to reopen old political wounds and set off another round of feuds in the high judicial tribunal.

Vinson took his seat as chief justice on Oct. 7, 1946, following his appointment by former President Harry S. Truman in the midst of some of the most furious Supreme Court wrangling in the nation's history.

He was appointed as a peacemaker by the former President in the hope that his talents as an arbitrator would quiet down the legalistic snarling that characterized court rulings for years.

The man who wanted Vinson's job was Associate Justice Robert H. Jackson. He was appointed in June, 1941, by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Jackson, at one time a New Deal favorite, had hardly warmed the judicial seat before he was quarreling with Associate Justices Felix Frankfurter, William O. Douglas and Hugo L. Black, three so-called liberal justices who were nurtured on the philosophy exemplified by those in power who surrounded Roosevelt.

Of these, Frankfurter was the most powerful and the most antagonistic to Jackson. Now beyond the retirement age of 75, Frankfurter has declined to resign and has maintained a fairly steady flow of gibes at Republicans who would like to get him off the bench.

Frankfurter was largely instrumental in keeping Jackson from the chief justice appointment.

From the standpoint of rank, Black, named in 1937 by Roosevelt, has prior rights to the top court job. He never will get it, first, because he is a Democrat and, second, because he represents a political era that is out of favor in Washington, if not a large part of the remainder of the nation. Black is no friend of Jackson's, either.

The retiring governor of California, Earl Warren, has the obvious inside track for the high-court vacancy. The American Bar Association unofficially has no objection to him, nor is there any among members of the Senate Judiciary Committee, which has to approve the nomination, prior to confirmation by the Senate as a whole.

Warren, however, has not practiced law for years and has little chance of getting the chief justice job. Opponents of Warren, including members of the California delegation in Congress, will sit still for an associate justice appointment, but it is unlikely that they will do so if the administration attempts to name him chief justice. They resent his familiarity with California Democrats.

The logical choice for Vinson's job is Jackson. Stop a dozen lawyers in Washington and 11 will name Jackson as the logical man. He is, therefore, likely to be the No. 1 target of other court members and those influential in the Eisenhower administration who have other candidates.

If Jackson gets the nod from the White House, Supreme Court attaches expect Frankfurter to resign without delay. Black and Douglas, happy in their roles as traditional dissenters, are expected to stay on the job whatever happens.

The White House does not expect a hurried announcement from President Eisenhower replacing Vinson. The court is not in session at present. Mr. Eisenhower was extremely fond of his bridge-playing crony Vinson, and unseemingly haste in replacing the chief justice is considered out of the question.

Whatever happens, however, there will be a lot of infighting before the Supreme Court situation is settled. There always has been.

The prospect of a high-court appointment in the past always has been one of the most fascinating wars of wits, innuendo and subtle propaganda in Washington.

Since this is the first appointment in the hands of the new administration, it will be watched with additional interest. A president bares his political philosophy in high-court appointments that is not duplicated by any other presidential action.

Religion for Servicemen

By MARK DANA

Plans of the United Service Organizations — a federation of welfare groups which during recent wars has provided entertainment to servicemen—to extend their activities to include religious functions, can be commended for nobility of objective.

With actual combat now suspended, military personnel in home camps and overseas still need all the religious influences that can be supplied.

Present and former servicemen, however, may wonder how the proposed religious activities will fit in with the services' own programs supervised by chaplains, and with the semi-religious phases of welfare-morale work done by the established service agencies. The Army's Special Services program, for instance, involves clubs, recreational centers, libraries, athletics, home hospitality and goodwill concern in communities.

The USO now plans to stress such activities as well as arrange entirely religious enterprises, hoping to provide to servicemen everywhere the "same religious ministration as would be available to them in their home communities."

It is possible, of course, that a private non-military agency like the USO, already having high good-will among servicemen for its lounges, reading and recreation rooms, social features and hobby-pursuing opportunities as well as stellar entertainment, can promote morality as well as morale—and religion along with recreation—in a way to bulwark what military chaplains seek earnestly to do.

Chaplains center most of their work on stations; the USO is most dramatically useful with its off-station centers, usually in city sections where off-duty personnel gather. Surely, if the idea proves practicable, and if uniformed men off duty properly respond to some religious elements introduced by the USO, the federation's whole program will become that much more effective in its broad scope, and a goal of all service chaplains—keeping servicemen loyal to their home-imbued religious atmosphere—will be bolstered.

No Mail Call

MILDENHALL, England (AP) — Mail call is a thing of the past at the modern American air force supply base here. Instead of lining up for letters from home each man now looks in at his own personal mailbox, complete with a four-combination lock.

The men can now pick up their mail at any hour of the day or night, without having to shuffle off from work early to be first in line for the handout.

Skyscraper Play Area

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — The top floors of new apartment buildings erected in Rio de Janeiro soon may all be children's playgrounds.

Mayor Dulcidio Cardoso has appointed a four-member commission to consider such a project.

The measure is prompted by a shortage of parks in the more densely-populated parts of Rio.

VERSAILLES

Russian Premier Georgi M. Malenkov's current peace offensive, unbalanced budgets and popular dislike of militarism are combining to force European nations to place more emphasis on training reserves than keeping large masses of men under arms.

During the 1952 summer and autumn field-training periods, virtually all the NATO nations in Europe have held or will hold training exercises for reservists with the exception of Turkey, which has no organized reserve training system.

Training of reservists requires special national grants, it was learned at Supreme Headquarters, Allied Forces in Europe, near here, and when large forces of regular soldiers are kept under arms it is difficult for nations under economic pressure to make additional grants for reserve training.

Exchequer comptrollers, however, are becoming more keenly conscious that in the over-all picture, a small standing army and a quickly mobilizable reserve organization is more economical in upkeep.

Therefore, it is anticipated that future national trends may require NATO to accept reserve divisions instead of ready-for-combat divisions, as originally planned.

While Great Britain has a reserve system similar to the U.S. National Guard, known as the Territorial Army, nations like France, Belgium and Holland expand for national defense in emergency on a different system.

Roughly, this system is that each regular infantry regiment of three battalions expands on mobilization into a division, with the calling of reserve officers and enlisted men.

Thus, the call-up of all French reserves for divisional training would add increased strain on already overburdened and inadequate national finances. Test mobilizations, therefore, rarely exceed more than one division at a time.

In England, the whole of the Territorial Army undergoes annual training for 10 days, in addition to week-end exercises.

The Territorial Army, which has earned military laurels in two wars since its foundation in the early years of this century, differs from the U.S. National Guard in that the majority of its enlisted men are not volunteers, but trained soldiers who have completed service of two years in the regular army.

On discharge, they are obliged to serve three more years in the TA. It is understood that a similar system is being studied at the Pentagon for possible adaptation to the U.S. National Guard system.

All territorial officers are volunteers, except for attached adjutants, staff officers and training noncoms.

Greece divides the country into military areas so that its seacoast and land frontiers always are in a state of defense. The reservists live in the areas concerned and near their regimental headquarters, as in the case of U.S. National Guardsmen and British territorials.

Turkey keeps so many divisions on a regular basis — that regular training of reserves has not been considered necessary. The Turkish ground forces are next in size to those of the United States among NATO nations. Reserve training is, however, now under consideration in Ankara as a result of suggestions from SHAPE.

Colorado - born Gen. John D. Guthrie, USA, is the staff officer for reserve training at SHAPE. He said: "SHAPE has no actual responsibility for training. We can only try to be constructive and make suggestions.

"The nations are responsible for training their own troops and do not wish to be told how to do it. Responsibility comes to us only when specified regular and reserve divisions are placed under the supreme commander in an emergency. Certain regular and reserve divisions are allocated to us now.

"I can go, as a visitor, to see in what stage of combat readiness they are. We have made a good deal of progress since the original Lisbon agreement on divisions. Though we have not yet attained the goals we hoped for, that is probably because nations set themselves higher standards than normal.

"General Gruenther used to say that he thought the first two years of SHAPE organization would be the toughest. But now it seems to become harder all the time because of the constant wave of political crises."

The Retirement Problem

By RAYMOND MOLEY

LOS ANGELES

Last month in Santa Barbara I had occasion to speak before a group known as The Retired Businessmen's Club. This organization, I was told, comprises some 160 members, most of them men who have retired from their companies or professions at a more or less arbitrary age, presumably 65.

As I surveyed that group of intelligent and for the most part vigorous men, I felt a deep sense of the pity, nay the tragedy, of such a waste of experience and tested capacity.

There were brains there sufficient to run railroads, oil companies, or banks, or to practice law at the highest level or to plan the building of ships, factories and office buildings.

But for the most part these fine capacities were being wasted on casual reading, golf, or listening to traveling journalists like this writer.

American business brains that have been capable of vast and imaginative achievements, that have squeezed the last drop of usefulness out of a thousand natural resources have so far been bound in impotence by traditional plans of retirement based upon facts outdated 50 years.

For the age of 65 as a guide to retirement is an anachronism. The evidence to that effect is before our eyes everywhere. The statistics on the subject are familiar.

At the turn of the century, the expectation of life at birth was 47. In 1950 it was 68. That was largely due to a decline in infant mortality, however. But the outlook at 65 is better by quite a few years. Those years are worth saving.

It is perfectly true that rules and regulations in companies and other institutions must have certainty. Young men are entitled to know when they enter employment that there will be opportunity for advancement as the older fellows die or retire. It is also true that pension and retirement plans must be mathematically calculated on the basis of some fixed periods.

But it would seem quite possible to devise plans, even in big institutions, which will provide ample scope for the young to come up and also to keep the elder members reasonably busy. Why would not a plan of progressively lengthening vacations be feasible?

Specific titles are not so important for men of established reputations, although they are of necessity important to younger people.

The title of chairman of the board takes care of presidents and permits the heir apparent to come up while there is an old head to advise. But that is limited to a very few.

Something of the sort is needed all along the line. Perhaps a shifting of jobs would be workable in many cases.

What I am suggesting has probably been thought out and tried. But I have heard little of it in big institutions, and I have heard a lot about the wasteful practice of arbitrary retirement. It is, of course, a fairly common practice in small companies and in family businesses. It prevails in many if not most law offices.

This problem is also very serious in education. There, however, is the complication of finances. The old professors are the highest paid, and if they stay on and on, juniors in their thirties cannot be paid what the necessities of growing families require.

Perhaps in colleges and universities some arrangement could be made for a declining pay scale after 60, with some lightening of the work. The money thus saved could go to the lower rungs in the educational ladder.

Certainly, the urgent need that this country produce more and more should lead us to devise means by which present trends can be reversed. For we seem to be moving into an era where fewer and fewer must support more and more.

Troop Landing

Bibles are being dropped from the air behind the Iron Curtain. At first thought this may seem an ineffective move, out of keeping with an era of stark realism and violence, but is it?

In an age when so many instruments of hate and destruction are dropped from the skies, the thought of a Bible, chronicler of all the patterns of love and compassion, being dropped from above in a desperate struggle to restore man to his senses can be inspiring.

The cynics and the sophisticates may have only a sneer for it, but there are millions who believe that when you drop the "Good Book" from the skies you drop something with greater ultimate force than the atomic bomb. . . and perhaps the only answer to it!

For in the Bible is found the atomic energy of the saints, the disciples and the Man of Peace worshipped by Gentile and admired by Jew, Buddhist and every race and creed.

Drop a Bible and perhaps you are developing a new aerial troop-landing. . . a landing of the troops of faith, hope and charity. In a land where religion has been crucified, men and women may see in a Bible, found in an open field, the conquering companies, the sacred phalanxes and the legions of triumphant compassion.

Peter and Paul, John and Matthew, marching again, may cut the brutal dictators, the secret police and the war lords down to size.

To a home behind the Iron Curtain, furtively nourishing the old faith, a copy of the Old or New Testament can kindle endeared memories, spark long suppressed instincts and straighten out a distorted picture, say we.

A Bible out of the skies picked up on a farm hillside, in a wood or in a city street is not to all people just a book, an item in a propaganda drive, a new tactic in a cold war; it can be a comforter to troubled minds, a warmer of hearts, a flashback to a happier day.

In a Bible, suddenly possessed after long years, can come visions of a sacrificing mother . . . a family at evening prayers. . . a home of consecration.

Borne home, perhaps by a child, a Bible can bring vivid recollections of an older copy . . . thumbworn. . . its beautiful passages underlined. . . a pressed flower between the leaves. . . its pages bearing notations of births, christenings, marriages and deaths.

It can bring a sweeping panorama of faith and peace.

Above the ultimatums, the hymns of hate and the tread of armies can come the voice of a child singing "It came upon a midnight clear" . . . the bleating of lambs. . . the startled exclamations of the shepherds beholding a new star, and the tinkling of trappings on the camels of the Magi.

Above the agony and the suffering can come the picture of the stable at Bethlehem, the echoes of the Sermon on the Mount.

Among the regimented, the spied-upon family in a totalitarian land a Bible, dropping from the heavens, can seem pretty wonderful. Sneering, derision and agnostic laughter will not come from the masses, who pay in blood for the teachings of the arrogant later-day leaders.

Death Claims Veteran Actor Lewis Stone, 73

Heart Attack Ends Career of 50 Years In Show Business

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Friends and fans today mourned the tragic passing of Lewis Stone, 73, the dignified veteran of stage and screen who collapsed and died Saturday night while chasing three teen-age prowlers outside his Hollywood home.

Private funeral services will be conducted at the actor's home Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Hazel Stone widow of the white-haired actor who protrayed "Judge Hardy" in the movies, said her husband was watching television when he heard prowlers outside. He collapsed on a sidewalk while chasing the boys and died of a heart attack without regaining consciousness.

Mrs. Stone said lawn furniture had been thrown into their swimming pool and that there had been trouble of this kind before. Police took three boys, one 13 and the others 15, into custody and booked them on suspicion of malicious mischief. Later they were released to custody of their parents pending possible juvenile court action.

Stone had been in show business more than 50 years

He was born in Worcester, Mass. He served in the Spanish-American War and was a cavalry major and instructor in World War I. His appearance in the Broadway stage play "Sidetracked" led to stardom and other hits in which he appeared included "The Girl of the Golden West' and "The Bird of Paradise.'

LEWIS STONE

In recent years Stone had curtailed his acting work but just a few weeks ago he completed a picture, "All the Brothers Were Valiant." His first picture, "Honor's Altar," was in 1915. Other early films included "Scaramouche," "Grand Hotel" and "Prisoner of Zenda."

In addition to his widow Stone is survived by two daughters, Barbara and Virginia. He had been married twice before. His first wife was the late Margaret Langham. He and his second wife, Florence Pryor, known as Florence Oakley on the stage, were divorced in 1939.

Prisoners Riot In Maryland

Convicts Are Angered At Decision by Umpire

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP) — It wasn't poor food or rough treatment by guards that sent more than 100 inmates on a riotous binge of destruction last night and today at the Maryland State Reformatory for Males

"It was an umpire's decision in a ball game," said the flabbergasted Supt. Henry R. Raymond.

Sixty-three young prisoners, still seething over an official's call in an afternoon reformatory league baseball game, erupted into violence at bedtime.

Before being subdued by tear gas, fire hoses and Raymond's stern words, they wrecked furniture, shattered windows and smashed lighting fixtures in two recreation rooms of the western Maryland institution.

Early today a second flareup occurred when a group of 40 prisoners in a basement dormitory tried to barricade doors and started breaking lights.

James W. Curran, assistant superintendent of Maryland prisons, said the men had heard about the first riot and staged one of their own when lights were turned on all over the prison after the first riot was smashed.

Authorities said about 40 guards were aided by 25 state troopers, city police and sheriff's deputies in putting down the first rebellion. They said no force was used to quell the second disturbance.

The riot-provoking decision came in the semi-final playoffs of the reformatory league, causing one team to stalk off the field midway through the game.

Truce Vague on Issue

Impasse on Participants May Doom Peace Talks

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—The torpedo just shot into preparations for the Korean peace conference may kill it before it starts. It's too soon to say. But here is an abc on how it happened.

For two years—summer of 1951 to summer of 1953—the United Nations command and the Chinese and North Korean Communists tried to reach agreement on a truce. Big stumbling block was the question of prisoners of war.

The Communists wanted all prisoners returned, whether or not the prisoners wanted to go home. The United Nations said the prisoners should choose for themselves. In the end, the United Nations won.

Meanwhile, the two sides had agreed on many other truce terms, called articles, which got far less public attention than the argument over war prisoners. Article No. 60 is causing the trouble now. It said:

"In order to insure a peaceful settlement of the Korean question, the military commanders of both sides hereby recommend to the governments of the countries concerned that within three months after an armistice is signed and becomes effective, a political conference at a higher level of both sides be held by representatives appointed respectively to settle through negotiations the question of the withdrawal of all foreign forces from Korea, a peaceful settlement of the Korean question, etc."

Nowhere did article 60 say precisely what nations should take part in the peace conference. It merely said "representatives appointed respectively." The vagueness now is causing trouble, and this is what led up to it.

Because of their part and stake in the war there never was any question that the Chinese and North Korean Communists and the South Koreans would all take part in the conference, even though none of them is a member of the U.N.

Thus, it seemed the only problem might be for the U.N. to decide what nations among its 60 members should represent the U.N. at the peace conference which, under Article 60, should begin about the end of October.

To choose its representatives, the U.N. General Assembly met in New York in special session in mid August. One question floated around. Should the U.N. representatives be limited to those nations which sent fighting men to Korea?

Or should other U.N. nations, particularly those with a deep interest in Asia, like India, which sent an ambulance unit but no troops, or Russia, which actually supplied the Chinese and North Koreans, represent the U.N., too?

Before the Assembly met, South Korea's President Syngman Rhee said he'd take no part in the peace conference if the U.N. chose India as one of its representatives.

So the United States adopted this proposal. Only those nations which sent troops to Korea could sit in on the conference for the U.N. This would exclude India. It would also exclude Russia. But the United States agreed Russia could take part provided the Chinese and North Koreans wanted her on the Reds' side.

The United States got its way. The U.N. said only the nations which sent troops to the U.N. command in Korea should represent the U.N. It said Russia could sit on the Communist side, if the Chinese and North Koreans wanted her. India was left out.

But the vagueness of Article 60 bore bitter fruit. For instance, a majority of the U.N. members, in spite of this country's opposition, voted to make India a representative. The only reason she didn't get the seat was because a majority vote was not enough. She needed two-thirds and didn't get it.

This didn't please the British, who argued the peace conference should be a "round table" affair, meaning: That not only the belligerents but other U.N. nations should sit in.

Exploting this U.S.-British split, Russia proposed that the U.N. should name a number of neutrals. But the General Assembly held to the United States' view.

Tomorrow the General Assembly meets in regular session. The Chinese Reds sent word yesterday they want to reopen the whole question of who shall take part in the peace conference.

It shouldn't be limited to belligerents, the Chinese said, but should be of the "round table" type to include neutrals. They demanded that Russia, India, Burma, Indonesia and Pakistan—all Asian countries—be included.

Margaret Truman Confesses to Keen Interest in Politics

CHICAGO (AP)—Indications are that the political bug is biting Margaret Truman.

The attractive young daughter of former President Harry S. Truman didn't say "yes"—nor did she say "no"—when asked if she might run for office on her own.

Margaret, her mother and dad, are much in the spotlight as Democrats open their two-day nationwide pep rally in the hope of capturing Congress in 1954 and the presidency in 1956.

Told there were rumors she might run for Congress, Margaret smilingly bantered: "That so?" and she moved along shaking hands.

Later at the request of reporters she detached herself from a crowd and, on a hotel stairway landing, answered questions.

Asked if she was personally interested in politics, she replied: "I'm always interested in politics."

The reporter persisted was she interested in holding political ofice herself. Margaret replied she had long-range TV and concert contracts.

But, she added, she hoped to take part in next fall's campaign.

How? Well, that depends on how she can work in campaigning with her professional contracts.

McCarthy Asks Editors' Report Be Corrected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) has asked seven members of the American Society of Newspaper Editors to revise their statement that he used his official position to quiz the editor of the New York Post about anti-McCarthy editorials.

James A. Wechsler, the editor, has contended McCarthy questioned him extensively several months ago about the Post's editorial policies, and hardly at all about books he had written and which were used in the government's overseas libraries — the announced purpose of the hearing.

The ASNE set up an 11-man committee to study whether the questioning of Wechsler threatened freedom of the press. The majority came to no firm conclusion, but a four-man minority said the hearing did imperil freedom of the press.

The portion of the majority report to which McCarthy objected, in a letter dated Sept. 10 and made public by him Saturday night, referred to "further questioning by Sen. McCarthy into the editorial policies of the New York Post . . . with particular emphasis on editorials and columns critical of Sen. McCarthy."

McCarthy, in his letter, said that if he had done that "I would be guilty of a very serious abuse of power," and he added:

"In view of the seriousness of the charge . . . plus the fact that this charge was admittedly in error, I think it only fair that the committee correct the report to conform to the facts."

Western World," said Tito, "is not to pour oil on the fire."

He charged that Italy had designs on his nation's territory, and he voiced a "suspicion" that some Western elements, particularly in Britain, were scheming with the Italians against Yugoslavia.

However, Tito denied rumors, which he charged Italy was spreading for "propaganda purposes," that Yugoslavia is turning back toward Russia and away from its Western supporters.

Britain and France that they had Pella reminded the United States, called in 1948 for the return of all of Trieste to Italy. He declared that the Allied policy statement—made before Tito's break with Moscow and tie-up with the West—was "still a valid instrument that cannot be renounced."

He contended a plebiscite was a formula that was a "practical realization" of the three-power statement and it also fulfilled its principle of "meeting the democratic aspirations" of the people of Trieste."

Balloting in Trieste, said Pella, should be carried out in a democratic way and "without the presence of troops of either interested party."

In Belgrade, Borba, the Yugoslav Communist party paper, said Pella's speech was an "attempt on Italy's part to camouflage the real appetite of Italian expansionism by reviving the old proposal for a plebiscite."

D. C. Ridgway Dies at Kenton

Rites Set Thursday for LaRue Businessman

Dean Clegget Ridgway, 82, of LaRue, died at San Antonio Hospital in Kenton at 5:30 a.m. today. He had been ill for two weeks.

He was born Oct. 31, 1870, in Grand Township, Marion County, to Basil and Roseanna Hastings Ridgway. He was married to Lillie Mae Benschoter in 1898 in Wood County. She died Sept. 7, 1902.

He was a director of the Kenton Savings Bank and was a farmer and stockman. He belonged to the Knights of Pythias Lodge in LaRue and was a part owner of the Ridgeway Hatchery in LaRue. He spent his entire lifetime in the vicinity.

Surviving are two sons, Keith B. Ridgway of LaRue and Clair C. Ridgway of Marion; five grandchildren and four great grandchildren. He was the last of a family of four children. His twin sister, Mrs. Grant Mouser Sr. of Marion died May 21 of this year.

Funeral services will be held at 1 p.m. Thursday at the LaRue Methodist Church with the Rev. Leland Wiley officiating. Burial will be at Otsego Cemetery in Wood County. Friends may call at the Ford Funeral Home in LaRue anytime after 1 p.m. Tuesday.

might seek election to Congress on Eisenhower's coattails.

Although Democratic leaders in Congress generally have contended the President's proposals got approval of this year's Congress only because of Democratic support, Mitchell said he doesn't believe coattail riding will work.

"I don't know if Eisenhower will be able to help elect anybody to Congress in another year," he declared.

Lack of Action Issue

Rep. Rayburn of Texas, the House minority leader, predicted that next year the Democrats will be criticizing the Republicans "not for what they have done, but for what they haven't done."

Sen. Monroney (D-Okla) said the minority party will "try to give the country back to the people and not to General Motors." The latter was a reference to the statement of Secretary of Defense Wilson that what was good for the country was good for General Motors, and vice versa.

All of this firing at the Republicans served to distract attention temporarily from the party's own inner troubles, scheduled to come to a boil later in the day in a series of panel sessions preceding a $100 a plate dinner tonight.

celebrating the Sesquicentennial of Ohio.

Melton in No. 1 Spot

Singer James Melton of opera and television fame is the leader of the parade in a 1907 model. He drove the car to Cleveland from New York.

Some of the cars which made the trip from 23 states and Canada to Cleveland are not expected to last the trip through Ohio. The entire route of the tour will be patrolled by men equipped with gas, oil, water, and other equipment necessary to make quick repair jobs.

The job of patrolling the road in Marion and Delaware Counies will be handled by three employes of the Gulf Oil Bulk Plant here. They are Tom Kirwin, John Matthews, and Horace Taber.

They will ride along Route 23 from the southern boundary line of Delaware County to the northern line of Marion County, and will be equipped to do minor repair jobs. One of the men will ride in a tow truck to pull any stranded drivers in to a shop where major repairs can be made if necessary.

Owned by Goering

Two-thirds of the cars in the parade were built before 1915. All but 25 were made in America. One of the foreign cars is a 1936 Mercedes Benz Phaeton now owned by Ralph Cox of Pittsburg. It is the car used by Herman Goering one of the top Nazis, to escape from Berlin in 1945.

The trip from Cleveland to Columbus will be over a 141 mile course. The trip Wednesday which will take the old-timers through Marion on their way to Toledo and Detroit will cover 190 miles.

County Health Board Hears Dr. Porterfield

Functions of a public health program were discussed by Dr. John D. Porterfield, director of the Ohio Department of Health, at a meeting Saturday morning of the Marion County Board of Health.

During the business session it was reported that five applications for the post of Marion County health commissioner were on file with the board. No action on them was taken Saturday by the board.

Next Match Planned

Boxer Takes Top Award In Kennel Club Dog Show

A Boxer owned by Mrs. Glen Dane of Marion was the Best-In-Match dog at the Marion Kennel Club's Class "D" sanctioned dog match held Sunday in the Junior Fair Building at the Marion County Fairgrounds.

The dog was judged the top dog of the show over four other group winners by George Smith of Birmingham, O., a licensed dog judge. Mrs. Dane's dog, which was best in the working group, was handled and shown by Virgil Campbell.

57 Dogs Entered

There were a total of 57 entries, made up of 20 different dog breeds, in the show and members of the local Kennel Club felt the match was successful.

Sherman Baker, chairman of the match committee, said another match will be held next year and that the club will attempt to include obedience training in it. He also said the match next year will be held before school begins to avoid chilly weather and interfering with children going to school. Club members were especially pleased at the number of entries in the Junior Showmanship classes.

A Kerry Blue Terrier owned by Mrs. Robin Grieve won the Terrier group. Other group winners were a Pomerian owned by Miss Ethel R. Rice of West Mansfield which won the Toy group; a Norwegian Elk Hound owned by Mrs. William Hamor which took the Hound group; and an Irish Setter owned by Russell Reichardt won the sporting group. There were no entries in the sixth group, the non-sporting one.

Junior Showmanship Winner

Best Junior Showman was Becky Grieve. By winning over two other Junior Showmanship class winners, she won the $2.50 prize. Second place went to Robert Marshall and third to Audrey Maxwell.

Douglas Maxwell won the junior handling class for boys six to 12 years of age. There were 12 boys entered. Robert Maxwell was second, Michael Dane third and James Edward Fox Jr. of LaRue fourth.

Audrey Maxwell won out over nine other entrants in the handling class for girls six to 12. Barbara Marshall was second, Carolyn Jane Fox of LaRue third and Sue Carhart fourth. Three entries were in the handling class for girls 12-16, with Becky Grieve taking first, Ann Carhart second and Sue Hazen third.

There were no entries in the handling class for boys 12-16 years of age. Winners in the handling classes won pencil sets. Ribbons were awarded to the first four winners and a bouquet of flowers went to the runner-up in the finals and a pencil set was awarded to the third place winner.

Winners Awarded

The Best-Of-Match dog received a trophy and a rosette. Group winners received bouquets of flowers and ribbons.

The match was for all registered puppies and adult dogs in the area or ones eligible to be registered with the American Kennel Club. Approximately 150 persons, including persons with entries and spectators, gathered in the Junior Fair Building for the match.

Spectators got a kick out of two entries in the junior showmanship classes. Two small boys with mongral dogs hardly able to walk showed them in the classes. Club officials permitted the lads to enter the dogs in the classes. The boys appeared to have a good time showing the dogs and the spectators seemed to enjoy watching them.

Judges were Mrs. Leone Ricketts of LaRue, Toy group; James Lingo of Shelby, Hound; Bud Wright of Oberlin, Terrier; Pete Merchant, Working; George Smith of Birmingham, O., Sporting; Mrs. Charlotte Lingo of Shelby, girls' showmanship classes; Arnold Swartz, boys showmanship classes; Bud Wright, best junior showman; and George Smith, groups and best of show.

Discovery of Woman's Body In Quarry Ends Long Search

A 12-hour search by Marion County sheriff's office personnel and other helpers, utilizing three boats and one airplane, for a missing Marion woman ended at 11:35 a.m. Sunday with the recovery of the woman's body from the water-filled Evans' quarry northwest of Marion off W. Fairground St.

The woman was Iona Hoch, 27, wife of Donald Hoch of 139 Fairview St.

Autopsy Performed

Following an autopsy performed Sunday afternoon, Dr. E. H. Morgan, Marion County Coroner, made a ruling of "death by drowning with suicidal intent."

The woman's husband reported Saturday afternoon to the Marion Police Department and the sheriff's office that his wife had been missing from their home since around 3 p.m. Friday when she left the home of her sister, Mrs. Dale George, on Evans St. A state radio message on her disappearance was dispatched by the police Saturday.

When last seen, Mrs. Hoch had been wearing black slacks and a black raincoat. A check by sheriff's deputies of residents near quarries in the surrounding area revealed that two farmers near the Evans Quarry had seen a woman answering Mrs. Hoch's description walking in the area Saturday afternoon.

Find Clothing

Deputies, in searching the quarry area, found a black raincoat, handkerchief and shoes on a ledge on the north side of the water-filled quarry.

Dragging of the quarry was started immediately but was called off around 9:30 p.m. Saturday due to darkness. The search was resumed early Sunday morning, and Mrs. Hoch's body was found at 11:35 a.m. by Robert Brown, of 180 Nye St., Fred Berry of 699 Woodrow Ave., and Paul Brown of 349 Clinton St., occupants of one of the boats.

Occupying a jet boat were Keenan Hanley and William Keppler of Prospect, while a rowboat was in use by sheriff's deputies. The airplane was piloted by Henry W. Miller and Richard Dune.

Sheriff Glenn Obenour this morning praised the many volunteer helpers who aided in the search, as well as his deputies. All three regular deputies were assigned to the search, as well as several part-time employes.

The body was taken in a Boyd ambulance to the Hughes Mortuary.

Services Tuesday

Iona E. Hoch was born April 28, 1926, in Guernsey County, a daughter of Ernest and Jessie Calvert Brown, the father a native of Marion County and the mother of Cambridge. Her marriage to Donald R. Hoch was July 24, 1945, in Greenville, Miss., after graduating in June that year from Harding High School, in Marion. She was a member of First EUB Church.

Surviving with her husband are her parents who live on Bartram Ave., and children, Frisha W. and Judy A. Hoch, and sisters, Mrs. Fred Berry of Woodrow Ave., Mrs. Harold Patton of Pearl St., Mrs. Dale George of Evans St., Mrs. William Perry of W. Church St., and Miss Nancy Brown of Bartram Ave.

Private Funeral services will be conducted Tuesday at 10 a.m. in the Merle H. Hughes Mortuary on Mt. Vernon Ave. Rev. L. E. Ames will officiate. Burial will be in Marion Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home after 7:30 tonight.

500 Persons Visit Flower Exhibition

An Ohio story in flower arrangements featured the fall flower show sponsored by The Marion Garden Club Saturday and Sunday in the community room of the West Town Branch Bank. More than 500 visitors viewed the display during the two-day show.

"Flowers Through the Years" was the theme of the show and arrangements honored frontier life, the first settlement, Ohio's famous men, the state's contribution to education, agriculture, religion and state and national life.

Artistically staged the show included a wide variety of flowers, arrangements and displays. Among the outstanding displays were a miniature of the Zoar Garden worked out in scale and presented in the educational display, arrangements using the state flower, the seal of Ohio and many other original and unique themes.

Awarded three first prizes, Mrs. Charles Oborn received the tri-color award in the show. Judges were Mrs. Joshua O. Easterbrook and Mrs. A. E. Luedy of Cleveland, national accredited judges.

Flemming Mentioned

One possibility mentioned over the weekend in Washington Republican circles was Arthur S. Flemming, defense mobilizer.

Flemming is a Republican and former president of Ohio Wesleyan University.

Durkin is a Democrat who supported the Democratic presidential slate in last year's election. He returned to his post as president of the AFL Plumbers Union last Thursday.

Most Republicans seemed to think his successor would be a Republican and probably not a union official.

Exchange Club Hears Baxter

C. L. Baxter, local manager of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co., was guest speaker when the Exchange Club met Friday at Hotel Harding.

He said that the Columbia Gas System, of which Ohio Fuel is a subsidiary, serves seven states and 1,100,000 homes and businesses, not counting the independent companies which purchase their gas from the system.

He added that the demand for natural gas has more than doubled in the last 10 years, so much so that it has become necessary to place restrictions on the use of gas for house heating. The company is doing everything possible to expand its facilities to meet this demand and a pipe line is now under construction to transport the gas to Ohio, he said. This line will be completed in the fall of 1954 and will do much to ease the present restrictions, according to Baxter.

He also showed a film entitled "The Blue Flame" which showed the discovery of natural gas, the building of pipe lines, and the "growth of a mighty industry made possible by this discovery."

John Salisbury reported that Oct. 20 has been tentatively set as the date for the formal presentation of the Freedom Shrine to Harding High School. Ex-Governor Myers Y. Cooper, an active Exchange Club member, will be the speaker.

Fred Schultz was in charge of the meeting.

Oklahoma City Girl Joins Shrine Frolicking

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A pretty teen-age girl, apparently carried away by frolicking in the streets as 12,000 Shriners gathered here for the central state Shrine convention, turned the downtown area upside down this weekend.

Detectives said the girl got up on a car and, as band-playing Shriners tooted and danced in the streets, proceeded to do an impromptu strip. The girl slipped away and disappeared before police could arrest her.

These Days

By George Sokolsky

Germany has had a long tradition of resisting the lava-like flow of the Slavic and Mongolian hordes into Europe. As far back as 1222, the Mongols appeared in Europe.

SOKOLSKY

Already in existence were the Teutonic Knights, a German order devoted to the German Church of Mary the virgin, stationed at a hospital in Acre. In 1198, this group became a military order, known as the Teutonic Knights.

After the Crusades, these knights moved to Germany where they were placed on the eastern borders of Germany where they played a role in the establishment of Brandenburg and Mecklenburg.

LUBECK BECAME a center of their activities and their missionary efforts extended as far as Riga in Livonia (now a part of Russia called Latvia). Here the Livonian Brothers of the Sword was established.

The main function of the Teutonic Knights was to christianize the nations on the eastern boundary of Germany and to encourage German pioneers to migrate to these areas.

In this capacity, in 1234, they transferred their now large holdings to the Pope, which they received back as fiefs — in a word, they had no other lord, in this feudal era, but the Pope.

The significance of this chapter in German history is that the tradition of Germany, as a wall against which the Slavs and Mongols often struck, continues in the race memory of the Teutonic peoples to this day. The victory of Dr. Konrad Adenauer is a defeat for Russia.

THE RUSSIANS so regard it. It is an acknowledgement that Germany is part of the western Christian world which, before World War II, stopped at the Oder River, but now stops at the Elbe by virtue of the Yalta Agreement.

Had Adenauer been defeated, or had his victory been less pronounced, it would have been possible to say that Germany, after two unsuccessful wars, had lost its historic sense and that the German people were prepared to submit to Russian conquest.

For that was the realistic issue in this election. Adenauer courageously accepted the risk of a clear-cut opposition to Russia; his opponents were neutralists, which could only have led to the forerunner of absorption in the Soviet Empire by the device of a Peoples' Government.

The United States has assumed a marked responsibility for Western Germany. Both President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles intervened in the West German election. Almost on the eve of the election, Dulles delivered his now famous speech before the American Legion, followed by a press interview, establishing American interest in the victory of Adenauer.

THE INTERNATIONALIST press in this country attacked Dulles's speech as being inept and likely to bring on the defeat of Adenauer. They were proved by events to have been incorrect in their judgment and propagandistic in their objectives

Actually, the Eisenhower - Dulles program of putting their cards on the table for all to see has proved to be correct. It may not suit the British or the French that we should support a distinctly anti - Russian government in West Germany, but the German people have established in this election that their attitude is the same as ours.

To France this election will be of the greatest significance. France lives in the memory of three wars, 1870, 1914, 1939, during each of which much or all of France was occupied by Germany.

No matter who won or lost these wars, Germany survived to grow strong again. This election establishes that West Germany will take its place in the European Defense Community.

THIS MEANS that the neutralist nations cannot form a solid European bloc against American policies. They will have to count on a militarized Germany which, as long as it is in partnership with the United States, will stand by the European Defense Community.

Should EEC break up because of neutralism, the United States would have an ally that will fight against absorption by Russia, not because it is the expedient thing to do but because it is in the profoundest tradition of the race.

Many reports have come from Europe, and particularly from Germany, that American stock is running down. The reasons given are many, including Joe McCarthy.

The answer appeared in the Adenauer victory. American stock is high among the German people because they prefer a nation with a positive outlook to one that seeks to weasel its way out of bad times.

TRAGEDY. Hubert Hall, 54, blind for four years, weeps over the body of Stet, his 17-month-old Boxer guide dog, killed by an automobile in Denver which did not stop after hitting the animal. Hall had Stet only since June.

HAMBURGER SENTENCE

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UP)—Earl Eastman walked into a restaurant, wolfed down 12 hamburgers, then told the proprietor he was broke. He went to jail for 15 days.

SEAGRAVE CIRCLE MEETS

For a recent meeting of the Trinity Baptist Seagrave Circle, Mrs. Carl Uncapher was hostess in her home on Irey Ave. She served a dessert luncheon, assisted by Mrs. Orley Layman. The time was spent in sewing of carpet rags and in counting tax stamps. Mrs. Jennie Shoots was a guest. Hostesses for the next meeting will be Mrs. Hattie Richards, and Mrs. Layman who will entertain at the church parlors.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Never, but positively never, in its 72 years has the AFL voluntarily ousted a racketeer from its officialdom.

RIESEL

It seems only fair to report this at a moment when the CIO's national leaders, some of them under constant body-guard, are preparing to tackle gambling mobs which have killed to protect $20 000,000 per-year-per-plant rackets.

The record, which I have searched carefully these many terror-filled weeks, reveals that only newspaper pressure, arrests and convictions have lifted crooked labor officials out of their unions. Never has there been self-searching by the AFL leadership.

IT HAS LONG been predicted here that soon enough a climactic week would be reached when the thousands of idealistic, crusading labor leaders would find their lives' work jeopardized by fierce public wrath provoked by a rash of scandals.

We have just gone through such a week, when, by coincidence or because of continuous outcries here, this sheer brutality and indiscriminate gathering of dollars has finally resulted in a rash of criminal indictments of labor leaders — many of whom will shame their national chiefs when the trial put them in the docket.

For supreme callousness, and not because I think him the most important, I give you first the rock-fisted Orville Ring, the union chief of Kansas City, the "crusader" in an air-conditioned Cadillac.

Ring, the regional teamsters boss of Local 541, was indicted by a county grand jury on charges of embezzlement and second degree robery. If Ring is convicted, the court will in effect have said that he stole money from the local — from the proletariat he so nobly led in his king-sized (what else?) air cooled coach.

THREE OTHERS were indicted with him — Ed Chevlin of Local 838, on charges of intent to kill and carrying concealed weapons, Del Nabors, a pug charged with felonious assault, and Will Wilkinson, chief of the Heavy Construction Laborers Union Local 663, for second degree robbery.

Congressional probers had discovered that these gentle gladiators, braving the Kansas heat, left their air-conditioned chariots long enough so that "violence has become the adjustor" of conflicts. The committee warned of "gangster tactics" which have "terrorized" the city's "free men."

A few days later, Detroit Grand Jury indicted dapper Bill Bufalino, boss of the Juke Box Local 825, who by this time had recovered from the nervousness which hospitalized him some months ago just at the very moment when a Congressional committee wanted him to testify. Now mark these charges.

"Extortion, conspiracy to extort, conspiracy to obtain money and property under false pretenses, conspiracy to molest certain persons in their occupation and conspiracy to force certain persons to become members of a labor organization." Bufalino has company on this one. Some six bosom, or should I say shoulder holster, companions.

THE GRAND JURY charged these defendants with maliciously threatening injury to the persons and property of certain men in the juke box, restaurant, tavern and parking lot business, with intent to extort money.

Money, what else. That's a passion. Money, money, far beyond the needs of the high income business agents. Money and jurisdiction, and more jurisdiction, so that Bufalino's union took in juke box owners, car washers, parking lot employees and the ever-present, ever-fought-over, race track workers.

We leave Detroit and make our way into the twilight (morally and geographically) towards St. Louis, on which all AFL national leaders will converge next week for their annual convention.

There we find Construction and Laborers Union leaders flayed by the grand jury for such imaginative ways of earning a living as forcing an employer "to pay rent for non-existent equipment supposedly furnished by certain union leaders, or companies controlled by them, or by dummy or non-existent companies and individuals set up by such leaders.

"CONTRACTORS insisting on some form of receipt for their pay-offs and refusing to make cash payments were furnished fictitious invoices for such rentals or services from these non-existent companies."

Too bad, indeed, such dashing imagination isn't devoted to bettering the working class welfare. But you can't expect these fellows to strain themselves.

This you'll find in many cities. Where the federal or local grand juries are preparing new indictments, the FBI is ready to move in, as on the New York waterfront, where new longshoremen arrests can be expected.

It is no longer possible for the honest leaders of labor — and I can name hundreds of these good men — to sit back in their own unions and say they can do nothing about the others. A few more scandals, a few more indictments, and there will be no unions, clean or dirty.

Visiting Firemen

By Inez Robb

Friendship, beautiful friendship, is a lovely thing. But in this city, always awash with visiting firemen from the old home town, it can crowd a man into bankruptcy with the speed of light.

INEZ ROBB

This stems from the fact that all visiting kith, kin and old school friends, no matter how on home grounds, are hell-bent to kick up their heels in the city's flesh pots and its night clubs.

-:-

NATURALLY, they expect the deluxe night club circuit tour under the aegis of the kith they are visiting, usually a poor wight who doesn't know a head waiter from a hack saw.

The nation's fixed image of the average New York as a cross between Diamond Jim Brady and the Marquess de Cuevas is a misconception which the true citizen bears with as much dignity and financial stamina as possible.

Faced with one more compulsory tour of the gay spots, he braces himself, braces his friends for a few hundreds till Friday, ropes the party together and sets forth for the Roaring Fifties.

He goes like the quarry slave scourged to hid dungeon, as another newspaper man, William Cullen Bryant, once remarked — probably about an ancestor of this same poor city sucker.

HOWEVER, I have gladsome news for my fellow townsmen. They are about to wiggle off the hook. I have before me a brochure announcing a service heretofore unavailable, but one which will fill a long-felt need of city dwellers.

Loftis Tours, a de luxe travel agency, will introduce this autumn "an evening in New York night clubs to be called Manhattan Revel." For a slight charge of $60 per person, the visiting fireman can twine vine leaves in his hand in five famous New York night spots, all under the urbane guidance of the Loftis people.

In the future, the average New Yorker who wants only to be left alone with his pipe and his personal problems after 7 p.m., can steer old Bill or Aunt Em to Loftis Tours.

It may come as a grave shock to old Bill and Aunt Em that it costs actual money to see the city's night life.

BUT EVEN IF they balk at ante-ing up the fixed fee, most New Yorkers will hand it over gladly if only they are permitted to stay home while the friends and loved ones go the route with Loftis.

Indeed, the Loftis people will get visiting firemen into joints where the ordinary New Yorker couldn't get by the velvet rope with a bazooka.

For instance, the first rendezvous spot at 7 15 p.m. is "a five-story mansion, once the home of the Donahues, heirs to the Woolworth fortune, later a notorious speakeasy operated by Texas Guinan's brother.

"Larry Fay, prohibition era racketeer, was slain on the richly carpeted stairs. It gave Louis Bromfield the inspiration for a short story which later became Mae West's first movie."

FURTHERMORE, James L Loftus, head of the tourist agency, explained to me that the man who now owns this hallowed spot was the waiter who caught Larry Fay and in whose arms he died the night the gang torpedoed him.

This place is now so exclusive I have never been able to get into it, and my Aunt Em will do a lot better with Loftis than with me.

This tour will also settle the hash of another mob consisting of American tourists who come home from Paris squawking about clip joints. The American Express Club Tour of Paris night clubs is still pegged at 4,500 francs or about $13, or $47 less than the Ne wYork tour.

Anyway, New Yorkers are eternally indebted to Mr. Loftis, who done freed us slaves.

The Oatis Story

There we sat, watching the stage set. Just in front of us was the horseshoe - shaped witness stall where we had stood, one after another, to accuse ourselves. Beside that, to my right, a well-dressed, rosy-cheeked girl sat as interpreter between me and the court.

—:—

Beyond it rose a spacious platform stretching clear across the end of the courtroom. Now and then a court functionary entered from a door at the rear and put some papers on a desk

Lawyers Arrive

Gradually the lawyers drifted in. The four advocates of the accused took their places together in a box on the right. Sly-faced, in old suits, they looked less like attorneys than like a seedy jury gathered hastily from among loiterers on the courthouse steps.

State Prosecutor Josef Urvalek strolled in. He was a youthful-looking man with black hair, a handsome face and a high, broad forehead. He wore a long black gown, and he seemed fond of playing tricks with it, shooting an arm out of the sleeve abruptly like Death pointing at his next victim.

Finally, the five judges filed briskly in, trailing their black gowns. We were prodded to our feet, while we heard the spectators rising behind us, and we remained standing till the judges were seated.

They sat side by side, facing us across the long, brown wooden bar. On the wall behind them, larger than life, reared the golden lion of Bohemia, a symbol from the days of feudalism strangely surviving in an age of Communism. Its tail was forked and barbed, like Satan's.

Cross-Eyed Judge

In the middle of the bar sat Presiding Judge Jaroslav Novak. He was stocky, yellowish and bald, with bushy brows.

His stern stare was none the less disconcerting for its ambiguity. I could never tell whether Judge Novak was looking at me or not; he was cross-eyed.

To his left were two other professional judges. One was a little brown man whose face was wrinkled in a perpetual scowl, as if he had a hangover. The other was a big, broad fellow with a big, broad face registering only dead calm—a kind of Slav Buddha.

To Judge Novak's right sat the two that had been pointed out to me as the "people's judges" — a bony little gnome of a man with a sagging mouth, and a buxom woman with a pile of brown hair. Both looked as if they might have spent most of their lives selling stamps in a post office.

The Black Cap

From somewhere, Judge Novak produced a round-topped black cap and, with both hands, placed it squarely on his head. The other judges followed suit. I knew the tradition and I knew what it meant: the court was about to pass sentence.

"The defendants," said Chairman Novak, looking at us, or past us, "will stand."

Between the two guards, I was hustled to my feet. With a quick jerk of his hand, the man on either side twisted my sleeve tight against my wrist — tight enough to stop the flow of blood. Our custodians could not keep us from fainting. But if we did faint, they were there to see that none of us disturbed the decorum of the court by falling on his face.

Expected Conviction

As Judge Novak began speaking, I gathered from the interpreter that we all were convicted. I had expected that. Now I braced myself to hear what it would mean for me. I knew enough Czech to catch the judge's meaning at once, ahead of the interpreter:

"William Nathan Oatis . . .deset let. . . ."

"Deset let"—10 years.

"Ten years' deprivation of freedom," the interpreter finished.

Ten years in prison.

Ten years — waiting, fighting time, struggling to get through each hour, mired down in a dreadful swamp of days, weeks, months, years.

Ten years. I looked across that awful gulf, and I could not measure it. It was as if I had just read that light from some star system deep in space takes a billion years to reach the earth The figure was beyond my comprehension.

But one thing I knew: I had lost a big chunk out of my life. That thought hit me like a cold, hard hand and almost pushed me over the rim of consciousness. My guts froze and the courtroom went white. The sense ebbed swiftly in my brain and then, before it was all gone, flowed back.

All this took only a moment. And then I heard the other sentences:

Thomas Svoboda—20 years.

Paul Woydinek—18 years.

Peter Muntz—16 years.

10 Minutes To Decide

We were all to forfeit our property to the state. And I, as a foreigner, was to be expelled from the country after completing my prison term.

Judge Novak then allowed us to sit down, and he read a statement of the court's reasoning on the case.

Finally, we were told that we might either accept sentence or appeal. "For the benefit of the foreigner," the judge added that in case of good behavior, a convict might petition for his own release after serving half his sentence.

He adjourned court for 10 minutes. We were led out a side door of the courtroom and across a hall and placed with our personal guards in separate cells.

Advice of Counsel

As I paced the narrow wooden floor of my cell, in came a neat middle-aged man in a gray business suit. He was a fidgety little man with a poker face and the quick, sidelong glance of an apprehensive rabbit. He had been introduced to me, only a week before, as "your lawyer, Dr. Bartos."

Dr. Bartos had with him a police interpreter, for he spoke no English. He had come to advise me on the next move.

"Ten years!" I said to him. "That's pretty stiff, isn't it?"

"I thought you'd get 15 years," he said.

"What do you think I ought to do?" I asked.

"I think you ought to accept the sentence."

I had pleaded guilty. Fourteen people had testified against me, and I was one of them. A denial of my guilt in the face of all that would get me nowhere. There was no use to appeal on the question of guilt.

I had got the lightest sentence laid down in the law for a case like mine. There was no reason to appeal on the question of the length of the sentence.

The Die Is Cast

I stood a chance to get out of prison after five years — Maybe even sooner. I could hardly hope to get out so soon if I antagonized the police or the judges. And if I appealed, I might antagonize them.

An appeal could do me no good, and it might hurt me I agreed with my lawyer. I would accept the sentence.

I had a question for Dr. Bartos: The police had told me that the United States Embassy had taken charge of the few clothes and books I had brought with me to Prague I wondered if the authorities meant to claim them, since the court had ruled that my property should be confiscated.

The lawyer waved his hand in a gesture of deprecation.

"That," he said, "was just for the public."

I grabbed at his promise that he would petition President Klement Gottwald, within the next few days, for my pardon.

Gave Wife's Address

I gave him the address of my wife, Laurabelle, in St Paul, Minn. I asked him to cable her that I had got 10 years in prison but that with good behavior I could get out in five and that he was petitioning for a pardon that might get me out even sooner.

He promised me he would. He also assured me that, whenever I wanted to consult him, I had only to tell a prison guard and I would be taken to him. Then he left.

A few moments later, we four convicts were back in the courtroom, and Judge Novak was asking me, "What is your decision?" I had framed my little piece beforehand, and I stood in the stall and spoke it:

"I accept the sentence of the court and ask that I be sent somewhere where I can do some useful work."

I hoped that I could go to a convict labor camp, where I should have sunshine and fresh air and room for a stroll and above all something to do, something to help me pass the time

Remained in Cell

I went back to a cell. I stayed in a cell until, after 24 months and 23 days in prison, I was pardoned.

If Dr. Bartos asked for my pardon, I never heard of it. If he sent a cable to my wife, she never got it. And if he really believed my keepers would let me consult him at will, he is a dreamer. I never got to talk to him again. I suppose I am just as well off

I well remember the last tip he gave me. We prisoners, one by one, had stood up and announced our acceptance of sentence and had taken our places again on our bench.

In his black robes, like Death's, the state prosecutor arose, and in a loud voice shouted, "I appeal!"

I looked across to where Dr Bartos sat, and our eyes met. He sensed my confusion at this unexpected development And again I saw that deprecatory wave of his hand.

Spectator Delighted

"That," he seemed to be saying again, "is just for the public."

I well remember, also, the last man I saw as I walked from that courtroom under guard, and under sentence. He was a spectator, a brown, greasy young fellow in shirt sleeves and rumpled trousers. He stood at the barrier and stared at me, and his face wore a wide, showy grin. He was plainly delighted with what had happened.

I think I can guess how he felt I think it was just the way the Communist party and regime wanted him to feel

He felt protected: The party was looking out for him. It had led the workers to power. And now once more it had safeguarded that power: it had nailed a spy.

And he felt self-important: He was the little guy watching the big guy take a tumble. He was tiny Czechoslovakia slapping the face of mighty America. He was the working class triumphant over a fallen foe, and gloating.

The show was over. For him, it had been a heart - warming melodrama with a happy ending. For my friends and me, it had been a tragedy. I never saw them again.

What Happened?

That is what happened to me on the Fourth of July, 1951. Why? What made it happen?

In my cell, in the months that followed, I had time to think about that — more time than I wanted. I thought about it—more than was good for me. And I suppose the answer is about like this.

The setup in Czechoslovakia while I was there was made to order for a case such as mine. I realize now something I never realized then: In all of eastern Europe, there was no more dangerous place for a Western correspondent to work.

If a man gets too close to a fight he gets hurt.

A fight was on in Czechoslovakia—the Communists' campaign to wipe out the opposition, to complete their revolution.

Quietly They Die

A fight was on in the world, too—the diplomatic struggle for preponderance between the respective spheres of influence of the United States and the Soviet Union. The western border of Czechoslovakia was part of the dividing line between those spheres. The frontier was tight, but it was not impassable. A lot got over, in both directions—much propaganda, and some spies.

Czechoslovakia was dangerous border country.

This revolution, as revolutions go, was a quiet one. People did not get shot down on the streets. They simply dropped out of sight, some of them to turn up in propaganda trials and, after accusing themselves of crimes against the state, get prison terms or go quietly to the gallows.

There was this, certainly, to put a man on his guard. But there were other things to throw him off it.

There was for example the fact that such things seldom happened to foreigners.

I went to Prague from London on June 23, 1950. Bedrich Runge of the press section of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs handed me a booklet labeled, "Journalist's identity card, 1950." Inside was my name, description and passport photo. In little squares labeled, "second quarter" and "third quarter," the ministry had stamped its official seal.

This meant that I was accredited as a foreign correspondent for the rest of June and for July, August and September. To continue my work after September, I must get this accreditation renewed, with a new stamp.

A Tricky System

This was the control the government exercised over correspondents. Their copy was not censored before it was sent out of the country. But government press people read it as it was published in newspapers abroad. If they did not like what they read, the ministry declined to renew the writer's accreditation. And with the expiration of his latest residence permit, he had to leave the country.

(Within the six months before my arrival in Prague, two AP men and several other correspondents had been got rid of this way, most of them on the grounds that they had indulged in what the government called "unobjective reporting.")

Official—And Unofficial

This system was tricky. The correspondent never knew quite where he stood

There was only one stated restriction on the movements of the American correspondent in Czechoslovakia. Except on journeys in and out of the country, he might not enter the relatively narrow frontier zone Otherwise, he was not specifically forbidden to go where he pleased and see what he liked

Nor was there any stated restriction on his contacts. He might talk to anyone that would talk to him.

Under these circumstances, he could see and hear a good deal. As an American, he naturally would find friends among Czechs sympathetic to Americans—lively, intelligent people, usually, alert to what was going on in the country and eager to talk about it.

So, with his own eyes and ears, he could get news that he did not see in the official press nor hear on the official radio nor pick up from handouts of the ministries of foreign affairs and information and the official news agency.

Using what the government gave him was called "official reporting" Using what he got otherwise was called "unofficial reporting."

He knew that what came from official sources was what the government wanted people to know. He might surmise that the authorities would frown on "unofficial reporting." But there was no hard-and-fast rule against it.

What was more, other correspondents did it and got by with it.

He knew that His home office sometimes asked him for "unofficial" stories that other correspondents already had on agency wires or in newspapers abroad. If some such story displeased somebody that mattered in Czechoslovakia, the offending reporter was simply bounced from the country — until it came my turn: I got arrested.

Those Who Matter

Because I forgot who were the people that really mattered. They were not press officers at the ministries of information and foreign affairs. They were not the Czechs that like American.

They were Czechs that did not like Americans, unless the Americans happened to be Communists or Communist sympathizers. They were the secret police.

I was their prisoner for over two years. And I have my experience or their own words to back up everything I say about them.

The secret police speak of themselves as the guardians of "our republic" and "our party." They aim, frankly, to wipe out all opposition. They do this mainly with the help of the laws on treason, espionage and sabotage.

They are the men with the most to do in preparing political propaganda trials in Czechoslovakia. They arrest suspects and question them until they have enough on them to convict them in a Czechoslovak court. Then the state prosecutor takes over, and a trial follows.

In any prosecution, there is the law and there is the evidence. The evidence must show to the satisfaction of the court that the accused broke the law.

State Holds Two Trumps

In this, the secret police have two advantages: The law is flexible, and their power over their prisoners makes it relatively easy for them to gather evidence, and even to manufacture it.

They can stretch the law from one side and the evidence from the other until the two overlap and can be bound together, much as a sailor might pull together and splice two sections of a severed rope. And the court will not look too closely at the splice.

They were suspicious of me from the day I entered Czechoslovakia

An innocent though incautious act of mine two months later strenghtened their suspicions That act prompted the authorities to stop my accreditation at the end of September. But they did not tell me the reason, and I could not guess.

I asked and got permission to stay and work as usual without accreditation. A few weeks later, I was invited to a confidential meeting with a secret police official.

On that occasion, a police agent posing as a ministry employe struck up an acquaintance with me. Several times after that, he invited me to dinner.

A Mystery Man

I went along, to try to figure out this mystery man He fished for information on the United States Embassy. He suggested that I use embassy communications channels to send news out of the country. And he finally tried to get me to work for him.

If his object was to provoke me to a clear violation of the law and catch me redhanded in it, he got nowhere. If his aim was to turn me into a police spy, he failed in that, too.

But he did give me some "unofficial" information, and this was used against me at my trial. He also did something for me that looked at the time like a favor. In February, 1951, he helped get my accreditation restored.

That same month, a secret police agent was shot and killed in Prague. Soon after, the police started arresting acquaintances of mine. They were also acquaintances of a man I had heard of but never met—another mystery man.

He was a Czech refugee that, for reasons unknown to me, passed back and forth across the border between Czechoslovakia and western Germany. And it was another acquaintance of this man, outside my own circle of friends, who was arrested and accused of killing the policeman.

Known by Employes

Three of my employes knew this refugee. These employes were arrested one by one—first Svoboda, then Woydinek, then Muntz.

On April 23, the police arrested me, too, searched my office and seized notes, news stories, messages and other material Later, others acquainted with the four of us were picked up And everybody was put through a stiff interrogation.

It is through such interrogations that prisoners are induced to make the fantastic confessions that are the hallmark of a propaganda trial.

They confess, most of them, not because confessions are beaten out of them. I should hesitate to say no suspect ever was beaten in Czechoslovakia. But never in my two years in prison was I beaten, and never did I meet another prisoner that would say he had been beaten or that showed any signs of it.

Had No Injections

As for the "injections" reputedly used in Communist countries, I was given no injections of anything besides what was described —correctly, I believe—as a sugar and vitamin solution for my health. I heard of no other prisoner that was drugged.

Prisoners make fantastic confessions primarily, I think, because they feel that that is their only chance to save something out of the wreckage.

They do so because they feel that that is what the police want them to do, and that unless they do what the police want them to they are lost

They are left in little doubt of what the police would like for them to say. On that score, the system is practically foolproof: The police simply write it out for them and they sign it, and then, in court, they recite it. It is a gesture of despair, a grab for a straw.

Hears the Evidence

In the witness stall, primed to talk away a part of their lives if not life itself, they might well say like Martin Luther, called before a church council to answer for his teachings:

"Here I stand—God help me, I can do no other."

In my case, the police easily established the fact that I had done "unofficial reporting."

They even confronted me with another suspect who testified I had sought "unofficial news—that is, espionage news"

There it was. In the eyes of the police, all unofficial reporting was espionage And if I knew what was good for me, I should look at the matter through the eyes of the police, because my fate was in their hands.

So I signed a statement to the effect that I had gathered military information in Czechoslovakia and that thereby I had committed espionage.

A Plot Suspected

This was still low-level espionage, punishable by three months to three years in prison. To indict me for high-level espionage, the police must show that I had obtained "state secrets with the intention of betraying them to a foreign power."

In January, 1951, I had met Lt. Col. George L Atwood when he came to Prague as military attache of the U. S. Embassy.

In talking with him, I learned that toward the end of the war he had gone to the Japanese language school of the Military Intelligence Service at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

So had I, when I was in the Army. We had been there at the same time, though we had never met there.

Among my effects, the police had found an unfortunate souvenir—a pass issued to me at a similar school at Fort Snelling, Minn., where I had spent a short time in transit to Ann Arbor.

Neither school had anything to do with peacetime intelligence work. Both were designed for the training of translators and interpreters to question prisoners and sift through captured documents in the war with Japan.

But to the secret police "military intelligence"—and there it was on the pass, in black and white—meant only one thing: espionage. To their minds, all this spelled a plot: I was a spy and Atwood was a spy, and we were working together.

Useless To Explain

It was useless for me to point out that I never had been in military intelligence and that I had cut all connections with the Army over six years before.

Questioned as to how certain things had got into my notebook, I had told them how, one day, I had picked up a rumor at the Indian embassy to the effect that apartments in one section of Prague were being commandeered for Army officers, and how I had asked Colonel Atwood what he knew about this.

In talking to him about that rumor, my intention was not to give him information but to get information from him—not for a story, but for background helpful to my understanding of the country where I was working. It turned out, in fact, that he already had heard the report.

Signed and Sealed

But that cut no ice with the police They made out of the incident what they could. They wrote out a statement, for my signature, that I had given military information to Atwood. And I haggled about it and rewrote it And, though it was still damaging, I had been awake for something like 42 hours All I could think of was that I must sleep They would not let me sleep till I had signed it, and so I signed.

Later, they took all they had about the two of us, and about the school, and worked it into a weird statement that wound up with my saying I had given Atwood information because I knew he was a spy.

Late one night, they pushed that at me, and a polite police official told me, "Sign this and you don't need to worry."

It was so fantastic that even as I read it I had to smile. And I was so confused that I did not see it for the boobytrap it was.

Approves Statement

It seems, I thought, that what they want is to shoot off a heavy charge of propaganda and then to expel Atwood—and maybe me too.

I signed that statement. Then they rewrote all my previous factual statements, hopping them up, needling fact with fancy, painting me as black as they could.

And by now I was so used to signing papers, so conscious of my absolute helplessness, so convinced that my only hope lay in playing their game, that on every page I wrote, "I have read this. I have approved it. I have signed it. William Nathan Oatis."

And, finally, in court, I recited it—practically all of it just the way they wanted me to recite it.

That is how the police got me, and how they stuck me.

The first sign that I was in trouble came in August of 1950, two months after I went to Prague as a foreign correspondent.

I happened at the world congress of the International Union of Students, held in a big trade exposition hall on the outskirts of Prague.

The IUS had its secretariat in Prague and included member organizations of college students in 68 countries. The secretariat and most of the member organizations were Communist dominated, but some of the latter, notably in England, Scotland and Denmark, were not.

My newsgathering routine consisted mostly of sitting in the office and writing stories I selected from the official Czechoslovak News Agency and local newspapers and radio, and occasionally going out and getting what I could from diplomats. The student congress gave me a chance to get something first hand-to cover a story with my own eyes and ears.

Man Named Jan

The convention produced no world-shaking news. But I reported how delegates demonstrated for soviet Prime Minister Stalin, while some Western delegations sat silent, and how an American speaker proclaimed, "In America, we will shout, 'Hands off Korea!'"

I later went down on the convention floor to talk to that speaker and some other delegates seated there. The hall was well staffed with ushers, but none stopped me.

I was in my office the next morning when a man telephoned asking if I knew where he could find Russell Jones, the United Press chief in Prague. I said I could not, and inquired who was calling The man said, "This is Jan."

I had heard about him Jan Stransky had worked for the UP until shortly before I arrived in Prague Then he had been picked up and sent to a labor camp on the grounds he had planned to leave the country illegally.

A few minutes after he had called, he walked into the office, a slight, boyish fellow with a lively manner, wearing khaki work clothes and brown from the sun. He had a pass to spend Sunday in a town near the camp, and he had taken a chance and come by bus to Prague.

Wanted Job Back

I gathered that he expected to be freed before Christmas and wanted to talk to Jones about getting his job back. Since Jones could not be found, Stransky wrote a note for me to deliver next time I saw him.

Stransky sat down and typed out something on some paper I gave him — a sheet of yellow foolscap Without reading it, I put it in my pocket.

When I met Jones at the student congress and gave him the note he grimly tore it up and dropped it, piece by piece, on the floor.

Pass Cancelled

A little later I showed my pass to get into the convention hall The usher grabbed it and rushed off. After some delay, a young man in glasses appeared He was trembling with anger. He waved my pass, torn in two, and said it had been cancelled.

"You were not behaving as a journalist only and were working through the conference hall," he said.

I thought at once of how I had gone onto the convention floor and questioned the American that had talked about Korea, and of how unhappy he had seemed to see me.

His speech, reported by the official Czechoslovak News Agency and by at least two American agencies; had caused him some trouble back home. And now, I supposed, the young Communists running the congress were punishing me for sending the story.

The congress ended and I turned to other things. In September, Bedrich Runge, a press officer, called me to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

Invited To Leave

Runge was a tall, gray-haired man with vague blue eyes in a beefy face. On my previous visits, he had received me cordially. This time his manner was stiff and cold. And he was not alone. There was a third party on hand —mousy little mustached man.

Runge failed to offer the usual handshake. Instead, he waved me to a little table He told me I would not be reaccredited when my permission to work as a correspondent expired Sept. 30.

"This is not a measure directed against The Associated Press," he said. "It is a measure directed against you personally."

"You cannot work in this country unless you respect our laws."

I asked him to be specific

"You know very well the reason," he said, and I answered, "But I don't know the reason."

I wrote a letter to Runge, requesting permission to stay till a replacement could get in Finally it was decided I would not be reaccredited but that I could stay and work temporarily as a "private person."

The Speech on Korea

I still did not know why my reaccreditation was being refused, but I had a hunch this had to do with the young Communists that had banished me from the student congress, and with the story about the American who spoke on Korea.

About that time, I had a talk with Vaclav Kolinek, general manager of the Czechoslovak News Agency, and asked him if he could tell me what was behind my trouble. And he spoke of the same story.

Maybe that story did have something to do with it - the whole thing is not clear yet But the story was not the only thing involved. There was something else. And the people who told me about that were the secret police.

Electrical Storm Hits Traffic Light

An after-effect of the electrical storm which hit Marion Saturday morning was reported this morning. The school traffic light on Bellefontaine Ave. at Olney Ave. and Pearl St. is now working around the clock.

Designed to be on from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m, the lights have been reported working all the time. Safety-service director Ralph Forrest said today he was unaware of the fact but said the storm Saturday morning was to blame.

He said the power failure must have thrown the automatic time clock in the light switch off balance, causing the continuous operation of the traffic lights.

Forrest said the condition would be checked and remedied immediately.

ACROSS THE COUNTER

Our office proudly announces a new service, which we extend to all of our friends, whether we write your insurance or not.

Earl J. Andrews

We have long thought that the present method of renewing driver's licenses is a big help for those dispensing the licenses, but is somewhat confusing for those who must be sure to remember to have it done on their birthday every third year.

This is the year, 1953-54, when most of us will need new licenses, and no doubt many will forget it in spite of notices in the paper and announcements on radio and television. Our office is pretty well geared for "reminding" people about their insurance, so we have decided to offer a service whereby we can remind you when your driver's license expires. All you have to do is send us your birthday date when your license will expire—for most people it will be your next birthday after this September 30th. For some, who have gotten their license sometime within the last three years, it will likly be next year or the following year. Whatever the date, just call us or write us a card and we will include your name in our file, and send you a reminder on the date you give us. Our phone is 2-3127.

Vitamin A Aids Skin Troubles, Chemists Hear

Ointment Promises To Bring Relief by Direct Application

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

CHICAGO (AP)—Ointments feeding vitamin A through the skin to clear up skin troubles are promised by findings reported today to the American Chemical Society.

Some of the lotions put on the skin even cured generalized vitamin A deficiencies in mice, said Drs. Albert Edward Sobel and Abraham Rosenberg of Jewish Hospital of Brooklyn, N.Y.

Many skin ailments, including some forms of pimples, warts, rashes and inflammations, all show a common sign of vitamin A deficiency, the chemists said.

Big daily tablets of vitamin A help correct these troubles, but too much vitamin can cause other upsets. The skin troubles don't appear to be due to general lack of vitamin A, they find, but to some failure within the body to supply the skin with enough vitamin.

The chemists reasoned it would be better treatment if the skin could get vitamin A directly, from lotions.

They fed mice diets lacking in vitamin A. The mice stopped growing, developed an eye trouble and other signs of too little vitamin. When lotions containing the vitamin were placed on shaved spots on their heads, they recovered, showing that they absorbed the vitamin through the skin.

Most effective were the two preparations, often used on babies' skin, containing vitamin A. This method of treating skin troubles has not yet been tested on humans.

Vanishing needles which give off radioactive rays to kill cancers were reported by Cmdr. H C Dudley, U.S. Naval Hospital at St Albans, N.Y.

The needles are made from a molten mixture of germanium dioxide and radioactive titanium phosphate. Threads drawn from the mixture solidify into glass-like needles which can be put into a tumor in the body.

For about two weeks, the radio active phosphorus stays put, delivering rays to hit the cancer. It can't wander off elsewhere in the body, where it could cause other damage until its rays are gone.

Then the germanium part of the needle dissolves slowly and is eliminated from the body without harmful effect, Dudley said.

Used so far only on animals, the needles permit radiating cancers at any desired spot with a minimum of damage to nearby healthy tissue, he said. They would be useful in treating tumors not reached by other forms of radiation.

FLED KOREA? Army authorities at Camp Kilmer in New Jersey are investigating the story of Pvt. John J. Galasso, 21, of Plainfield, N. J., who said he fled from the Korean front, crossed the Pacific on an Army transport and hitch-hiked home from San Francisco.

Ex-Convict Sought In Slaying Since Aug. 28 Surrenders

NEW YORK (AP)—William Howell, 35, ex-convict of Ridgefield, N.J., surrendered to police early today after being sought since Aug. 28 in the murder of labor leader Thomas F. Lewis, 35, in the Bronx.

Howell walked into Bronx police headquarters police station at 1 a.m. (EST).

Authorities have said they believed Howell was the driver of a getaway car which the slayer, ex-convict Edward Ryan, 45, never got a chance to use. Ryan, believed to have been hired for the killing, was shot to death by a policeman while fleeing.

Lewis, head of Local 32-E of the AFL Building Service Employes International Union, was shot to death in front of his apartment house.

The motive for the slaying has not been established, authorities said recently.

FOUND AND LOST

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. (UP) — A woman shopper saw a $10 bill on the sidewalk and turned it over to police. When she got home she discovered it was her money.

Special Levies Pay For Improvements

CHICAGO (UP) — Many cities are using special assessments to finance improvements in streets and sewers, curbs and sidewalks.

The International Ctiy Managers' Association reports its survey showed that 591 cities over 5,000 population use special assessments for paving streets.

It also said 540 cities in the same population group used the method to finance improvements in sewers; 539 for curbs and gutters and 527 for sidewalks.

Repaving of streets, water main street lighting, and offstreet parking facilities also are financed in many cities by special assessments, the report said.

The survey said these four methods were used generally in special assessment projects; complete or partial advance payment by property owners, temporary loans from city funds, issuance of certificates or liens to the contractor for doing the work and selling special assessment bonds.

Federal Agents Sell Contents Of Plush Home

Maryland Woman Convicted in $350,000 Embezzlement Case

BALTIMORE (AP)—The lavish furnishings of a meek-looking accountant's plush home were auctioned off today to help restore some of the $350,000 she was convicted of embezzling from a credit union.

It was the second day of bargain-basement atmosphere at the big North Charles St. dwelling formerly occupied by Mrs. Naomi Ringrose, 46.

She is now serving five years for the embezzlement of funds from the Federal Credit Union of Social Security Workers in Baltimore.

Yesterday more than 2,400 curious citizens paid 25 cents a throw to gape about the $70,000 house with its exquisite collection of mirrors, furniture and decorations.

Federal agents obtained title to the home, as well as a beauty parlor Mrs. Ringrose operated on the side, after her arrest last April.

The beauty shop was sold for $3,500. After the furnishings are auctioned, the house will be sold, too.

The house contained one room furnished in a Chinese motif, bright pink walls and delicate, shiny black cabinets and boxes. Another was done along Louis XVI lines, and still another in Victorian taste.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Two men who escaped from an Ohio penal farm last month were held by St. Louis police today, accused of two robberies and a car theft since their escape.

Ray W Heaslip, 26, of Trenton, Mich., and William F. Denny, 29, of Columbus, were arrested after a tavern waitress reported one of them had a gun.

Heaslip was sentenced from Cleveland to a 1-25 year term for unarmed robbery. Denny was serving a 10-25 year term for armed robbery.

Police said the men stated they escaped Aug. 21 from the Osborn Honor Camp at Huron, Ohio, a division of the Ohio State Reformatory in Mansfield, after prying loose a door hinge.

From there the two went to South Bend, Ind., stole a car and went to Chicago, Milwaukee and Kansas City, officers said they were told. Police said the two admitted getting $40 in a Kansas City hotel holdup and $100 in a filling station robbery "somewhere in Illinois."

Harding Gridders Blank Newark 20-0

THE PENNANT IS THEIRS AGAIN. Jubilant Brooklyn Dodgers hoist their manager Chuck Dressen onto their shoulders in dressing room at Milwaukee after the Dodgers clinched the pennant with a 5-2 victory over the Milwaukee Braves. ## Alert Defense Play Sets Up Scores, Blocks Cats' Attack

By JOHN SHORT
Marion Star Sports Editor

Harding High School football fans are eagerly awaiting the season opener at Columbus West Friday night after the Prexies rushed to an impressive 20-0 win Saturday night in a preview game with Newark.

Playing four eight-minute quarters, the Prexies battled the visiting team on even terms through the first stanza but began driving for a touchdown the first time they gained possession of the ball in the second.

Bob Prater and Jim Whaley combined to set up the first score. Prater broke through to block a Bob Mathews punt at the Newark 40 and Whaley recovered the ball at the 43. Chet King and Doug Bibler alternated to carry to the 34 where two pass attempts failed. The Prexies were forced to kick and the Wildcats put the ball into play at the 23.

Score on Pass Interception

The visitors took to the air and, on the first play, Bob Hamor pulled in an enemy aerial and scooted 38 yards for the score. Gene Armstrong converted for a 7-0 lead.

The kickoff was returned to the 30-yard marker where Hank Rinnert set up the second Prexy TD when he recovered a Newark fumble at the 26. Gary Ballinger hit for nine and King picked up one before Fred Price hit Joe Albinack with a pass at the three. From there, Ballinger went over and Armstrong again converted.

Early in the secnd half, the Prexies failed to gain after taking the kickoff in the second half and Price punted to Mathews at the 25. Again the Cats went to the air and this time King pulled in the pass at the 41 and went for the final score. Ted Firstenberger missed the conversion attempt.

Harold Jones went 28 yards to cross the goal line in the last period but an offside penalty offset the score.

The Cats were bottled up during the closing minutes by Hardin's tightly-knit defense. The ground attack was halted and passers were forced to pass out of bounds on several occasions by the Harding forward wall.

Howison, Fans Pleased

Coach Pete Howison and his assistants, as well as nearly 1,800 fans at the game, were well pleased with the performance of the Prexies. Howison was especially pleased with the defensive work of his gridders. All three scores were the result of defensive play, one coming from a blocked kick and two on pass interceptions. Any defensive ills which hurt the squad last year seem to be cured.

The backfield, although on the small side, showed it had speed to burn and will be dangerous from any distance. Tackling was sharp and hard and the team showed confidence, in itself from the opening kickoff.

No Serious Injuries

The team came through the preview tilt with no serious injuries although Doug Bibler injured a knee. Bibler had just recovered from a knee injury which slowed him in practice and Saturday night bumped the other.

The game was sponsored by the Harding Booster Club with proceeds going to the club to carry on its work with athletics at Harding. Club members were selling memberships to the fans and began their year's activities after the game by serving refreshments to the team, visitors and officials. The Harding Band was on hand to help make the preview a success.

Lineups Listed

Harding, ends: Stauffer, F. Hazen, Townsend, Armstrong, Firstenberger, Prater, Butler, Thomas, T. Bibler, tackles: Nolfi, Williams, Parshall, D'Eramo, Matteson, Hendel, Hamor, Caprino, Whaley; guards: Thackery, Sager, Thomas, Clinger, Harper, Scott, Coy; center, Rinnert, Caldwell, Messner, Huber; backs: Burns, Price, Bibler, Jones, Albinack, Snouffer, Schweinfurth, King, T. ## Dodger Pilot Pleased With Black's Work

CHICAGO (AP) — Manager Chuck Dressen of the Brooklyn Dodgers, National League champions, said today he was "very, very pleased" with the way pitcher Joe Black is now coming around after a disappointing slow start this season.

"I thought Black did a fine job yesterday in the first six innings against the Chicago Cubs," he said. "I may use him for a couple of innings today—sort of sharpen him up for the World Series. He's big and can take all the work we can give him."

Black, making his third start of the season, turned in a two-hit, one walk chore in the first six frames.

He yielded a leadoff bunt single to Frankie Baumholtz and pitched a double play ball to Eddie Miksis before Dee Fondy homered. After that, the big righthander retired 15 Cubs in succession before walking Baumholtz with two out in the sixth.

The Cubs got to Black's successor, Jim Hughes for two runs and a 32 victory in 10 innings.

Dressen said he will be in New York tomorrow to scout the Yankees.

"I hope Cleveland beats them a couple," he said. "They bear down a lot more when there's something at stake, and it is easier to scout a team under those conditions."

Lemon Needs One Win To Hit 20-Game Mark

NEW YORK (AP)—The chance of the Cleveland Indians having more than one 20-game winner this season was mighty slim today after Mike Garcia failed yesterday in a bid for his 18th victory.

That left both Garcia and Early Wynn three short of the 20-game mark, with only 11 more games on the Cleveland schedule. Bob Lemon, however, needs just one more victory to complete his fifth 20-game season in six years.

Old Johnny Mize was responsible for Garcia's defeat yesterday as he entered the game in the eighth as a pinch hitter and slammed Garcia's first pitch for a homer with two men aboard to give the New York Yankees a 6-3 victory.

Pennantwise, the game put the Indians in the position of having their next defeat make the Yankees the 1953 champions.

Mize's homer was the fifth and final in a battle of homers, each of the others good for one run. Joe Collins and Gene Woodling hit two for the Yanks, and Larry Doby hit his 24th and 25th for the Indians.

In the fourth, Cleveland missed a chance to top the record of double plays in 26 straight games set by the 1951 Boston Red Sox. With Mickey Mantle on first via a walk, Woodling hit a grounder to Bob Avila. Mantle was forced, but Woodling beat George Stirklands throw to first.

Wynn starts for the Tribe today against Whitey Ford, also seeking his 18th victory.

Association Opens Playoffs Tuesday

By The Associated Press

The annual American Association playoff, on a best-of-seven basis, will open Tuesday with pennant-winning Toledo playing host to third-place Louisville and runner-up Kansas City entertaining fourth-place Indianapolis.

The playoff champion will meet the International League winner in the annual Little World Series.

Toledo, clinching its second pennant in history and its first since 1927, closed the regular season Sunday with a 4-3 victory over Columbus. It gave the sox a final 90-54 record for .584. A crowd of 4,974 turned out to boost Toledo's season attendance to 343,672 highest in the city's 52 years in the Association.

Kansas City wound up two games behind Toledo by sweeping a doubleheader from St. Paul, 3-1 and 2-0. Louisville, six games off the pace, split a twin bill with Minneapolis. The Colonels took the 11-inning nightcap 6-4 after losing a 10-inning opener 5-4.

Fourth-place Indianapolis, eight games behind Toledo, lost its finale to Charleston 2-1 in 11 innings.

A HELPING HAND. Ralph Lomeli of Fresno, Calif., who fired a six-under-par 66 in first round of the Eastern Open golf tournament at Baltimore, Md., uses a prosthetic appliance to indicate he may need a helping hand as veteran pros sharpened up their shooting as the tournament advanced. Lomeli holds the bent and improvised putter he used during his hot round in which he took only 28 putts for the 18 holes.

Redlegs Divide Doubleheader With Pirates

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Redlegs can defeat the pennant-winning Dodgers or the fourth-place Phils, but they have a devil of a time with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Pirates edged Cincinnati 5-4 yesterday in the first game of a doubleheader for their fourth straight Crosley Field win. Then, thanks to some sloppy battery work by Pittsburgh, the Redlegs downed the visitors in the nightcap 8-6.

Two new Cincinnati club records were set during the day. Gus Bell drove in his 100th run, the first Cincinnati outfielder to go past the RBI century mark in a single season. It is also the first time two players have batted in 100 in one season. Ted Kluszewski reached the point last month.

The Redlegs went ahead in the opener with a two-run spree in the initial frame. The two clubs exchanged single runs in the second.

Two runs were picked up by the visitors in the third, then the pitchers settled down for three scoreless frames. The Bucs broke the tie in the seventh when Paul LaPalme opened with single and advanced to third on Brandy Davis two bagger. Bob Kelly replaced Ken Raffensberger, immediately yielding a two-run single by Danny O'Connell.

In the nightcap, Pittsburgh immediately rattled Herm Wehmeier for two counters. the rambling Redlegs evened the count when Jim Greengrass smashed his 19th circuit-clout of the year with Kluszewski aboard.

The Pirates added two in the third, and one in the fifth and sixth, all on homers. Preston Ward smashed the first and third and Frank Thomas sandwiched in the other.

Hobie Landrith opened the four-run home seventh with a single, advanced to second when Rocky Bridges was passed and raced home on Andy Seminick's pinch-hit single.

Johnny Hetki replaced Paul Petit Catcher Vic Janowicz, the football flash, allowed one of Johnnys first tosses to pass, sending runners on first and second to their next stations. They scored on Bob Adams double. Bobby took third on a sacrifice and came home on Hetki's wild pitch. That tied the ball game 6-6.

In the eighth, Willard Marshall beat out a pinch-hit and Landrith walked. Bridges singled to score the pair and win the tilt.

Little World Series Play Resumes Tonight at 7

The Marion Little World Series continues tonight at Garfield Park.

St. Mary No. 1 meets Carl's Auto Parts in the opener at 7 p.m. Both are losers from the Series openers last week.

Marion Power Shovel battles Marion Metal Products in the second game set for 8:30 p.m. Each is seeking their second Series win.

Ludwig's Grid Career Ended By Neck Injury

Marion's Dean Ludwig's football career is ended at the University of Michigan.

Michigan Coach Bennie Oosterbaan made the announcement Sunday. Ludwig, a 190-pound center, had received a neck injury in a scrimmage last Tuesday afternoon.

Ludwig reported headaches and dizzy spells when he was released from University Hospital Friday.

The latest injury marked the third season in a row since enrolling at Michigan that the hard-luck ace had been injured. His injury was at first reported a minor head injury but later proved to more serious than first believed.

The Harding High School graduate suffered a broken leg the week prior to the Ohio State game two years ago during his first season with the Wolverines. Then last year a neck injury during pre-season action shelved him for the entire season.

Before last year's injury, Dean had been named by Coach Oosterbaan as No. 1 offensive center and top linebacker along with Roger Zatkoff. Ted Topor replaced him in the spot following his injury. Dean had been a cinch to hit the varsity this season. Dick O'Shaugnessy, captain of the Wolves, had been tentatively moved to a guard post to make room for Dean at center under the new substitution rule.

Majoring in physical education at Michigan where he is a junior, Dean was a two-way player for the Harding Presidents. He graduated from Harding in 1951 after winning varsity letters for football, basketball and track. Dean is the son of Rev. and Mrs. L. Harrison Ludwig.

Greene Wants Curtailment on TV Ring Shows

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A proposal to limit nationally televised fights to one a week was offered today by National Boxing Commissioner Abe J. Greene in a speech prepared for delivery at the opening session of the national boxing association convention here.

Charging that "boxing giveth and TV taketh away," Greene said the sport is confronted constantly by growing millions of new boxing fans but a corresponding drop in the number of ticket buying spectators. Television does not — but should — do much more to make up the financial loss to boxing, Greene said.

Greene lashed at "theater TV" as well as at the "chairside" variety. The Rocky Marciano LaStarza fight Sept. 24, said Greene, will be channeled "into a wide network of theaters which will be packed at $2, $3 or $4 a head. What promoter will be able to buck that fight that night with a theater within driving range," Greene asked.

Clemson College football coach Frank Howard says his line of work is fine "if you like riding on a roller coaster!"

Notre Dame Picked No. 1 In Pre-Season Grid Poll

NEW YORK (AP)—Notre Dame will complete its climb back to the top of the national collegiate football rankings this year in the opinion of the 171 sportswriters and broadcasters participating in the Associated Press' annual pre-season poll.

The Irish, who reached the third rung of the standings in the final poll of 1952 after being shut out the two previous seasons, were voted by a wide margin as the team most likely to succeed. They received 84 first place votes and a total of 1,668 on the basis of 10 for first, nine for second and etc.

Michigan State, 1952 champion, dropped back to second with 24 first place votes and a total of 1,305. Georgia Tech, runnerup to the Spartans last year, was placed at the top by the same number of voters and finished a close third with 1,128.

UCLA followed with 12 first and a total of 1,065 for a position two places higher than in the 1952 final poll. Alabama rose from ninth to fifth with 966 points. Then came Oklahoma, fourth last year, with 672; Ohio State with 666, Southern California with 165, Maryland 143 and Duke with 86. Alabama received 18 first place votes, Oklahoma and Ohio State 3 each, Maryland 1 and Duke 2.

Belle Center Tops Forest 11-1 in Tournament Action

Belle Center downed Forest 11-1 for the championship of the Mid-Ohio Baseball Tourney at Lincoln Park Sunday.

Hull hurled the Logan County nine to the tourney title. Belle Center chased starter Ohlen Hemmerly after four frames, mixing several base hits with his wildness to hand him the defeat.

Hemmerly had hurled in relief in the opening game for Forest and his arm was troubled by the cold weather. Forest entered the finals by eliminating Nevada 5-4 in ten frames.

Hemmerly relieved starter Bob Oatis in the eighth and received credit for the win. Lloyd Naus and Roger Cramer punched out singles to bring in the winning run in the tenth. Don Reed was the losing pitcher.

Each team had only one hit up to the sixth frame and it was a scoreless game until the seventh. Forest came up with three in the top of the inning but Nevada came back with two tallies in the bottom of the round. Nevada went ahead with another run in the eighth but Forest tied it up with a tally in the ninth, sending the game into overtime.

In league play, Belle Center won the first round title and Forest took the second round championship. It marked the third year the league was in operation. Forest won the tournament last year and Marseilles copped it the previous year.

Dick Mayer Tops Eastern Open Play

BALTIMORE (AP)—The wide open aspect of professional golf when such veteran stars as Ben Hogan, Lloyd Mangrum and Sam Snead pick thier spots was emphasized yesterday with the close of the summer tourney circuit.

Dick Mayer by taking the Eastern Open by a comfortable four strokes became the eighth golfer this year to win for the first time in pro competition.

The 29-year-old native of Connecticut has been trying for three years after being an amateur champion of New York state and the metropolitan area.

The $2,400 he won by shooting 279, nine strokes lower than Mount Pleasant's par, was nearly half his earnings all the rest of this year.

Trailing him were Doug Ford, the year's second leading money winner of Harrison, N. Y., Charlie Bassler of Catonsville, Md., and Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va.

Kepler, Cardi Tied In Tri-State Play

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Bob Kepler, Ohio State golf coach, and team member Francis Cardi tied Joe Taylor and Ed Tutweiler of Charleston, W. Va., for the championship of the Tri-State, Best ball, Pro-amateur Tournament here yesterday.

Taylor is West Virginia PGA champ; Tutweiler is state amateur king. Both teams carded 67 over the 18-hole Zanesville Country Club course. Pennsylvania was the third state represented.

Don Albert of Alliance and Charles Whipperman of Canton, defending champions were not entered.

Feat Never Before Accomplished

Yankees Certain To Clinch Pennant Fifth Straight Year

By JOE REICHLER
AP Sports Writer

Today is V-Day for Manager Casey Stengel and his New York Yankees.

V stands for five, the record number of consecutive pennants Stengel and his Yankees are certain of winning, a feat never accomplished before by club or manager.

The world champions reduced their "magic number" to two by defeating the Cleveland Indians, 6-3 on amazing Johnny Mize's pinch hit home run with two mates aboard in the eighth inning. The triumph boosted the Yank lead over the Tribe to 12 games.

Two is the combination number of Yankee victories and-or Indian defeats needed to gain New York's fifth straight pennant. As the Yankees and Indians were to clash again this afternoon, a New York victory would eliminate the Tribe from any mathematical possibility of overtaking the Yankees.

The Chicago White Sox officially faded out of the pennant race yesterday losing 7-6 to the Red Sox in Boston. In other American League games, Detroit solidified its hold on sixth place, sweeping both ends of a doubleheader from Washington 10-4 and 6-4 while St. Louis and Philadelphia divided their doubleheader. The Browns spoiled rookie right hander Bob Trice's major league debut, defeating the Philadelphia Negro 5-2 in the opener. The A's won the second 2-0 as Harry Byrd ended a personal nine-game losing streak.

In the National League Chicago's seventh place Cubs extended their winning streak to nine straight defeating the champion Brooklyn Dodgers 3-2 in 10 innings. The St. Louis Cardinals rolled up 19 hits crushing the Philadelphia Phillies 17-3 for Harvey Haddix' 18th triumph. Warren Spahn won his 20th as Milwaukee split a doubleheader with the New York Giants. Joe Adcock's 18th homer with a man on base enabled Spahn to win a 2-1 hurling duel from Larry Jansen in the opener. Five unearned runs in the fourth inning gave Marv Grissom and the Giants a 7-4 victory.

After Pittsburgh's Paul Lapalme pitched a seven-hit 5-4 triumph in the opener, Cincinnati won the second game 8-6. Rookie Jim Greengrass hit his 19th homer for the Redlegs. Frank Thomas hit his 23rd four-bagger for Pittsburgh and teammate Preston Ward hammered two in the nightcap.

John Mize was the Yankee hero yesterday. The 40-year-old pinch hitter de luxe strode out of the dugout with runners on first and second, one out in the eighth, the score tied at 3-3 and whacked Mike Garcia's first pitch into the right field stands for a three-run homer. It was his third pinchhit homer of the season, his fifth as a Yankee and the sixth of his long career.

Garcia and the Indians had a 3-2 lead going into the last half of the eighth. Two mighty homers by Larry Doby and Al Rosen's run-scoring single had put the Yankees' Vic Raschi behind. Gene Woodling tied the score at 3-3 in the eighth with his homer. Billy Martin got a single on a lucky hit while trying to duck a pitch and Phil Rizzuto reached base on Rosen's high throw. Then up came Mize and down went the Indians.

Reliever Harry Dorish walked Milt Bolling with the bases filled in the eighth to force in the winning run in the Red Sox' victory over the White Sox. Boston came back with two runs in the eighth after Chicago had tallied three runs on pinch hitter Bob Boyd's base-clearing doube to take the lead.

Randy Jackson singled in the 10th and eventually scored on Joe Garagiola's grounder to score the run that gave the Cubs their longest winning streak since their 11 straight in 1945.

Spahn yielded six hits as he gained his 20th triumph in his fourth effort. The Milwaukee southpaw has won 20 or more in a season five times, more than any other active pitcher in the National League.

Queen City Greets Net Star Trabert

CINCINNATI (AP)—His hometown today welcomed as a conquering hero tennis champion Tony Trabert, the first national Cincinnati titlist since Ezzard Charles dropped the heavyweight fight crown.

Graceful Tony, who can slam a serve with swirling speed, won the national singles title last Monday. American zone Davis Cup matches in Montreal have kept the 23 year old star from receiving accolades from admiring friends here

Trabert teamed up with Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, the man he beat for the amateur title, to take the zone play for the United States Saturday.

"He was great," Seixas said of Trabert after the Forest Hills, N. Y., tournament.

Tony plans to return to the University of Cincinnati after he plays in the Davis Cup matches in Australia and after he weds pretty Miss Shauna Wood of Salt Lake City, Utah.

Hog Grading Event Slated for Wyandot Fair on Thursday

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY—An educational activity new to the Wyandot County Fair which opens Tuesday will be the hog grading demonstration in the Junior Fair building at 8 a.m. Thursday. Sponsored by the county Hog Improvement Association and the County Extension Service, the demonstration of grading will be made by Fordyce Ogg of the Producers Livestock Co-op in Columbus.

Ogg will grade the entries in three brackets and explain why each animal is classified in a particular grade. Current market trends toward a leaner hog for top market value, according to county agent Sam Cashman, will make this a valuable demonstration for producers.

Nearly 100 entries are anticipated for the demonstration and two trophies will be awarded, one for the best single entry and one for the best pen of three hogs. The activity will be open to producers of all breeds and each producer will be permitted to enter from one to five hogs weighing between 180 and 220 pounds.

Judging of exhibits starts Tuesday morning and will continue through Friday. Junior Fair exhibits will be judged on Wednesday, annual Junior Fair Day, and the grand parade of livestock, floats and machinery will take place in front of the grandstand at 1 p.m. Saturday.

BIG RED. A new shuffle of the Kremlin high command has moved Nikita S. Khruschev up to First Secretary of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, the post Premier Georgi Malenkov resigned when he succeeded Stalin. Observers believe that this appointment makes Khrushchev, who has headed the five-man Secretariat of the Central Committee since last March, the No 2 man in the Russian government.

Soviets Name New No. 2 Man

Nikita Khruschev Red Party Secretary

LONDON (AP) — The West reckoned today with a new No 2 man in the Soviet Union. He is Nikita S. Khruschev, 59-year-old Ukranian and new boss of the Soviet Communist party's vast and powerful machinery.

Moscow radio announced Saturday night he had been elected first secretary of the party's Central Committee. The post put him second only to Premier Georgi M Malenkov in the Soviet hierarch.

Joseph Stalin used a similar post, secretary general of the Central Committee, as his chief weapon of power in his earlier political career.

Though his title is a new one, Khruschev has bossed the party machinery since March as head of the Central Committee's five-mans-secretariat. At that time Malenkov, who has succeeded Stalin, resigned the Central Committee secretaryship to concentrate on the premiership

Lavrenty P. Beria had been viewed as the No. 2 man under Malenkov until he was arrested last June, accused of treason and kicked out of the government Foreign Minister V. M Molotov is the third man in the Soviet lineup.

Cincy Reported Ready To Sell Claim to Tulsa

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs have let it be known they want to dispose of their Tulsa Texas League baseball franchise, the Tulsa World said today.

The World said Gabe Paul, Cincinnati general manager, gave out the word at a conference with a group of local businessmen Friday.

He returned to Cincinnati after watching the Tulsa-Fort Worth playoff game in the Texas city Saturday night.

"No specific figures were quoted," said the World, "but it was reported Paul said Cincinnati had invested more than $175,000 in the Tulsa franchise and wanted to get at least that investment back in any deal for it."

Cincinnati acquired the Tulsa club from local owners after the 1947 season and after three profitable seasons was said to have absorbed losses in 1951 and 1952, reportedly as high as $50,000 last season.

3 Young Campers Marooned on Lake Superior by Storm

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP)—Three 14-year-old campers huddled in tents today awaiting rescue from a tiny Lake Superior island where they were marooned by a fierce fall storm that grounded a freighter and broke a dredge loose from a tug.

The Coast Guard planned to take the young boys off Presque Island today. The trio, who had to spend two nights on the chilly island just off the coast west of here, were trapped by the same big blow that left nine Great Lakes sailors floundering on a dredge and stranded 32 others on a beached, 10,000-ton freighter.

All the sailors were taken to safety.

The nine on the dredge Howard M. Jr. were taken aboard the Coast Guard cutter Mackinaw Sunday 12 miles off Au Sable Point west of Whitefish Bay.

They had been adrift in cold and stormy weather nearly 24 hours after the dredge broke away from its tug, the George Purvis, off Caribou Island.

By John Crosby

New Columnist

J. CROSBY

I left my notes out in the country which leaves me nothing to write about except Faye Emerson. When there's nothing else to write about, there's always Faye Emerson that indestructible lady. She was — and quite properly, too — one of Eric Sevareid's "publicity saints," one of those people whose names constantly bob into the newspapers, even when they're not doing much.

As of last Tuesday, though, she may have to resign from the lodge. On that day, she became a newspaperwoman, specifically a television columnist. God help her, and, of course, you can't go around getting your name in the papers when you're writing for them. The rules on this side of the fence are quite a lot different from those on the other side of it and it may take a while for the girl to get used to them.

I EXPECT the greatest difference between being on television and writing about it is the matter of opinion. Television performers are permitted only the most rigidly orthodox opinions. God's in his heaven. Motherhood is the noblest pursuit of womankind. The United States is the sanctuary of all that is worthwhile in the world. These are all estimable opinions, all right, but limited in scope.

If you want to stay in this dodge long, Miss Emerson, you'll have to venture way beyond this area and plunge right into the seas of controversy. Is Eddie Cantor an entertainer or isn't he? Right there you can see the vast differences between TV and journalism. On television, Eddie Canton — and every other performer — is a magnificent entertainer, a prince of good fellows and the very acme of social responsibility.

In this racket, Miss E., we view performers with a large measure of skepticism, bordering narrowly on district. It'll be hard to write about these people, after so many years of reverence, as something less than gods. Most of them are, though. In fact, damned near all of them are.

I'M AFRAID Miss Emerson will learn how to do this very rapidly. She is a woman of formidable opinions on most every subject from politics to falconry and she is not above expressing these opinions at parties at the top of her lungs. From there it's only a step to cloaking these opinions into something resembling the English language and, sister, you're in business. She'll probably wind up by putting the rest of us out of business.

Her first — and as this is written, only — column to appear was a lament about all the agony stories that appear on television giveaways. I agreed with every word she said and my only complaint was that she didn't make it stronger, much stronger. But, as I say, it'll take a little time before she starts swinging from the floor.

THE COLUMN betrays the fact that Miss Emerson looks at quite a lot of television, something not all TV columnists do. As a matter of cold truth, she is one of the most indefatigable television lookers of my acquaintance. She can stare at the confounded thing for periods which would render me numb with ennui.

"I will try never to write an opinion as fact and will watch for personal prejudices as carefully as I would for a cobra," she promised in announcing her column. "I reserve the right to be peevish but never petty." Anyone who has known Faye very well will vouch for this. She hasn't a prejudice in her body. And when she gets mad, there's nothing petty about it. The rages are Olympian and wondrous to behold.

"Although the prose may not be deathless, it will be my own." There will be a lot of rumors that someone else is writing the stuff. I can personally attest that she's writing it herself. I looked over a few of the first ones, written in her own sprawling handwriting. No one else could have written them. The prose, as she says, isn't exactly deathless but then whose is?

Welcome to the lodge, kid. Move over, boys, and mind your language. There's a lady in the room.

N.Y. Stock Quotations

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market rallied a little today after a poor start.

The initial decline of the market at the opening carried many prices into new low territory for the year on the heels of Friday's big fall to a new 1953 low.

The rally from that low point was not particularly vigorous, although the volume of business was fairly large.

Business was good at a two million share pace. That compares with 1,930,000 shares traded Friday.

Among groups either ahead on balance or holding steady were railroads, motion pictures, radio-televisions, utilities, and coppers.

Stocks advancing included Southern Railway, Consolidated Edison, Anaconda Copper, United Air Lines, 20th Century—Fox, Radio Corp., American Cyanamid, and American Can.

Lower were Bethlehem Steel, Standard Oil (NJ), American Smelting, Allied Chemical, Douglas Aircraft, and U. S. Rubber.

Originally a ship's speed was measured with a log at the end of a long line. This was thrown overboard and the line played out. At regular intervals knots had been tied and these were counted during a fixed time as the line played out. This gave the speed in "knots," equivalent to nautical miles per hour.
